Cyprus Green Line

Canadians Take Over

NICOSIA (UPI) — Canadian troops moved into Cyprus' Green Line today expecting and ready for trouble.

Army sources said today "somebody is bound to try and test us."

A top-ranking Canadian officer said Canadians took over from British forces along the line early in the morning and Greek and Turkish Cypriots were expected to try out the new mediators within hours.

'WE'RE READY'

The officers were not worried about the quick tempers of the French-Canadian troops. The men have been training for the role for the last three years and are well versed in both fighting and police work.

"Canada won't be put in a bad light," said one officer. "We told the troops at home and again here what to do in any situation. They'll remember."

The officers have made several tours of the Green Line in the past week and are familiar with it and the positions of Greek and Turkish Cypriots.

"We know who to deal with now on both sides," an officer said.

The blue United Nations flag rose at dawn today at British and Canadian troop encampments in Cyprus, symbolizing the official inauguration of Unficyp — the United Nations force in Cyprus.

The 6,000 British and 1,000 Canadian soldiers put on blue UN berets and came under UN command.

The UN army officially became operational at 5 a.m.

Service Chiefs Agree

Merger 'Good Thing'

By DON GAIN
Colonist Military Reporter

Heads of all three services in Victoria yesterday agreed that amalgamation of the armed forces is a good thing.

Also in accord was Col. Peter Ramsay, commander of 25 Militia Group.

"Many of us have felt for a long time that savings could be made in national defence and the new policy, in the light of fiscal requirements, is inevitable," he said.

"I welcome the fact that we now have a clear-cut, long-term policy," said Rear-Admiral W. M. Landymore, Flag Officer Pacific Coast.

"Its main advantage," he said, "is likely to be that a great deal of committe work necessary for close liaison will in fact be reduced so that decision-making will be simplified and be more rapid."

"We haven't had time to study all the facets of the thing," said Air Commodore R. C. Weston, senior air officer Pacific, "but in general it appears to be a sensible move."

The air commodore said he did not think there would be any serious effect as far as tradition goes.

Loss of tradition has been mentioned by veterans as a by-product of unification.

"I don't think it will have any effect on tradition," said Lt.-Col. H. C. F. Elliot, commanding officer of 1st Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles of Canada at Work Point.

"My battalion is very proud of its tradition as the oldest infantry regiment in the Canadian army. Defence Minister Hellyer said today that he does not propose to do anything to change this and I therefore feel that we will not lose it."

★ ★ ★

Sailor Quotes Banks

'JOB DONE ON PUNK'

MONTREAL (CP)—Big Mike Sheehan, a 49-year-old former sailor with a Liverpool Irish accent, testified Thursday Hal Banks had told him "a job had been done in Ontario" and "that there'd be no more trouble with that punk" after Capt. Henry Walsh had been beaten up seven years ago.

Sheehan, a patrolman with the Seafarers' International Union of Canada (Ind.) for 10 years, said he was in Banks' office in downtown Montreal both before and after the beating in Owen Sound, Ont.

Banks, deposed as SIU president last week, was sitting in his office with Richard Greaves, a marine engineer union official, on one occasion, Sheehan testified, and called Eldon Richardson, 38, a co-accused, there on a loudspeaker.

CALLED TO OFFICE

Sheehan said he heard Banks ask Richardson whether he knew Capt. Walsh and when he replied he did not, the union leader called Paul Carsh, 37, on the loudspeaker to come to his office.

The witness said he then left the office but saw Richardson, Carsh and Jack Caspar, sought on a warrant in the case, leave the union hall together.

BEATEN IN 1957

Banks is on trial on a charge of conspiring with Richardson, Carsh and Caspar to assault Capt. Walsh with intent to wound, maim or disfigure. Capt. Walsh was beaten up in August, 1957, in a darkened hotel parking lot.

Sheehan, who said he was in charge of picketing Canadian National Steamships vessels in Montreal at the time, testified he met Richardson a few days later and was told he "did a job on Walsh." However, Sheehan said Richardson told him Carsh had "chickened out."

Sheehan said Caspar was "sent up from the United States" because of the CNS strike. Later, Sheehan said he was called to Banks' office and told to pick up Caspar's gear. Caspar was in the office, he said, and Banks make out a $1,000 cheque to him and charged it off to the CNS strike.

The trial was adjourned to Tuesday.

Silver on His Hair And Gun in His Hand

VANCOUVER (CP) — A man wearing pink gloves, his hair shining with silver lacquer, Thursday used a gun and inside knowledge of a vault to steal about $56,000 in unemployment insurance payments from an office of the National Employment Service.

A woman clerk screamed, pressed an alarm button, then fainted when the vault door swung slowly open to disclose the man standing inside with the gun in his right hand and the sack of money in his left.

HID EARLIER

Zone manager Stanley Purdy said the pink-glove bandit must have entered the unlocked vault and crawled out of sight atop an air vent some time before an armored car crew delivered the money into the vault and left, locking the door behind them.

"He must have either entered the vault or seen into it at some time to know its layout and where to hide," Mr. Purdy said.

How long the bandit lay hidden was not known. Police said he could have been there all night or could have entered the offices with early - arriving workers.

The $56,000 in small bills represented twice the normal amount that would have been on hand. It was for two days' payments, covering the Good Friday holiday.

After the robbery, a second shipment of money was dispatched to the NES office for payment to long lines of unemployed queued up outside.

Head cashier Mrs. Joseph Watson said the man "appeared calm and stepped out slowly."

The man ran down a flight of back stairs, waited in the lane until a car drew up, stepped inside and was driven away.

Good Friday

Commons Faces Overtime

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliament will sit Good Friday, then adjourn—probably within minutes—to Monday to try to clean up the government's spending plans for the current fiscal year.

MPs, many of whom had booked Easter holidays trips out of Ottawa late Thursday, suddenly found themselves in the position of meeting at 11 a.m. today.

STRONG FEELINGS

Within minutes of the unplanned adjournment of Thursday's sitting until Good Friday, a spokesman for Prime Minister Pearson said the government will propose an immediate adjournment of the House until 2:30 p.m. Monday. The spokesman said Mr. Pearson holds "very strong feelings" against sitting Good Friday.

He said the plan to sit Monday means the promised Easter recess from Thursday to Monday, April 6, is "out the window to all intents and purposes."

PARLEY SNAG

This snag in planning Parliament's work catches the government in a bind because of the important federal-provincial conference to resume in Quebec City Tuesday. However, if the Commons cleans up its work Monday, this hazard would be removed.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker issued a statement calling for an immediate adjournment of the House Good Friday without transacting any business.

"I will not sit on Good Friday, nor should the government, by its own ineptness and autocratic action, place any

B.C. Leads In Problems

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia leads all provinces in mental illness, divorce and venereal disease, Robert Dudley, executive director of the Victoria branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association, said Wednesday.

He said B.C. leads in almost every social disease, and that efforts to combat the problems in B.C. have been less successful than campaigns carried out in the rest of Canada.

South Main Battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Defence Secretary Robert McNamara said Thursday night that direct military action against Communist North Viet Nam could only be supplementary to the main war against Communist guerrillas in South Viet Nam—but he did not rule out the possibility of such attacks. He said it has been given careful study.

The Pentagon chief said, too,

● The "situation in South Viet Nam has unquestionably worsened . . . since last fall" but the new government of Gen. Nguyen Khanh is "vigorously rebuilding the machinery of administration and reshaping plans to carry the war" against the Viet Cong guerrillas in South Viet Nam.

● "The road ahead in Viet Nam is going to be long, difficult and frustrating."

New Military Boss

A Hard-Driving Ex-Bomber Pilot

By ALAN DONNELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—Air Chief Marshal Frank Miller, a hard-driving six-footer, has been tabbed for the job of reorganizing Canada's armed forces under a single military command.

Miller

The 55 - year - old former bomber pilot will be breaking new ground all the way. Informants said they know of no other prominent country with armed forces unified to the degree proposed in the government's white paper on defence unveiled Thursday.

APPROVAL SURE

Air Chief Marshal Miller, now chairman of the chiefs of staff committee, was immediately designated by Defence Minister Hellyer to head the integrated defence command...Cabinet approval of the appointment is considered certain.

The move will do away with the committee system of defence co-ordination, which the white paper said carries with it "inevitable delays and frustration."

B.C. NATIVE

The man for the job is a native of Kamloops, who has had both military and administrative experience in the defence department.

In the RCAF since 1931, he became an air marshal in 1954 when he was only 46 years old. The following year he hung up his uniform and switched to the

The Story of Easter

Christians Know Christ Still Alive

By LOUIS CASSELS
(Last of a Series)

More than 700,000,000 people around the world will celebrate this Easter.

In stately Latin and melodious Polynesian, and in virtually every other known tongue, they will repeat the news that sped through the demoralized company of Christian disciples on the first Easter morning.

Easter is the oldest and most sacred of Christian holy days for very good reason. Unlike the Oriental religions which are based on mystical experiences and metaphysical speculation, Christianity is anchored in history to an event — the resurrection of Jesus Christ.

From its earliest days to the present, the Christian church has never hesitated to stake its whole case on the claim that this event really happened.

"If Christ be not risen," the apostle Paul told the Corinthians, "then is your faith in vain."

What is the evidence for the resurrection?

Many Christians probably would answer that question by citing the Biblical stories about the finding of the empty tomb. These stories dramatize the fact of the resurrection as nothing else can, and their devotional value has earned them the central place at most Easter worship services.

But to the rigorously objective modern scholars who have exposed the New Testament to the most searching scrutiny ever given to any book, the empty tomb is secondary evidence.

These scholars point out that there are a number of discrepancies in the various gospel narratives about the awesome discovery that greeted the devoted women who went to the tomb "early in the morning on the first day of the week."

These discrepancies do not mean that the story is untrue. On the contrary, even a newspaper reporter can discern, in the different accounts, just that variation in detail but agreement on essential fact, which is the hallmark of authentic eyewitnesses' accounts of any momentous event.

But the discrepancies do indicate to Biblical researchers that the first Christians did not attach primary importance to the empty tomb. If they had, a greater attempt probably would have been made to pin down the precise facts, to harmonize the disparate versions that circulated freely in the oral traditions until they eventually were set down in the gospels.

What pushed the empty tomb into the background of the early apostles' thoughts? The answer is abundantly clear in all of the gospels, in the book of Acts and in Paul's letters.

The apostles saw Jesus himself, not once but on many occasions after his death. They knew him to be living, and their supreme certainty of this fact made all "corroborating evidence" seem unimportant.

The earliest account of Jesus' resurrection appearances is given in Paul's first letter to the church at Corinth:

"For I delivered to you as of first importance what I also received, that Christ died for our sins in accordance with the scriptures, that He was buried, that He was raised on the third day in accordance with the scriptures, and that He appeared to Peter, then to the twelve.

"Then He appeared to more than 500 brethren at one time, most of whom are still alive, though some have fallen asleep. Then He appeared to James, then to all the apostles. Last of all . . . He appeared also to me."

It is sometimes said that the resurrection of Jesus is "the best-attested fact in history," because the whole Christian church bears witness to it.

Those who make this statement usually have two ideas in mind.

First, they mean that the existence of the church can hardly be explained except in terms of the resurrection. As one scholar has writtten, "it is easier, even for a non-believer in miracles, to accept the fact of the resurrection than to find any other adequate explanation of the change that came over the disciples within three days after they had fled Jerusalem in terror."

The second meaning is that the church, from the time of the apostles until now, has consisted at its core of men and women who are convinced—not by anything they had read or have been told, but by the irrefutable evidence of their own experience—that Christ is living still.

Hospital Switch?

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government is working on a modified plan for making unused space in veterans' hospitals available for civilian occupancy, reliable sources said Wednesday.

Talks are in progress with a number of provincial governments on the plan which may supersede the policy announced March 16 by Veterans Minister Teillet.

Mr. Teillet told the Commons the only practical solution to the veterans' hospital problem "is to enter into agreements with suitable agencies to take over operational control of veterans hospitals.

"These would then become general community hospitals, in which the department could purchase the service it must provide."

Mr. Teillet laid down certain essential conditions under which such a policy could be implemented, including immediate availability of treatment for veterans.

When he was named chairman of the chiefs of staff committee in April, 1960, he was only the second man to hold that job. Gen. Charles Foulkes had been the first chairman for nine years.

He is also the second man in the RCAF to hold air chief marshal's rank. The first was the wartime chief of air staff, the late Air Chief Marshal L. S. Breadner.

MINIMUM FUSS

Air Chief Marshal Miller, a lean, grey-haired man, is described by colleagues as "tremendously hard-working." He's noted for his ability to get things done with a minimum of fuss and his desk has the uncluttered look of a parade square.

GOLF, FISHING

His main hobbies are golfing and fishing. And when he has the time he's an avid reader with interests in many fields of literature.

There has been no indication whether his new appointment will bring a pay raise. His present salary is $25,000 a year, following a $4,000 increase in January.

ENGINEER

He is a civil engineering graduate of the University of Alberta who served in a variety of flying, training and administrative RCAF jobs in eight years before the outbreak of the Second World War.

During the war he commanded a number of training schools in Canada, and was director of training at headquarters here before moving overseas in 1944. There he served with Canadian Bomber Group as a station commander and later base commander.

After the war he rose through a series of commands to become vice chief of air staff in 1951. Three years later he became vice air deputy at NATO headquarters in Europe, where he stayed until named deputy defence minister to succeed Charles M. Drury, now minister of industry and defence production.

Ruptures Can Be Dangerous Best Corrected by Surgery

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: I have been told I have a rupture (not by a doctor) but I'm not certain about it. What are the symptoms, and would anything serious happen if it does not have immediate attention?—J.S.

A rupture, by definition, is a fault in some restraining tissue, allowing the tissues inside to push through the weak place.

WEAKENED AREA

For practical purposes, this means a weakened place or aperture in the abdominal wall, or in the groin.

A bulge appears, and this enlarges when you cough or strain.

There may be no other symptoms. Or there may be some: a sort of draggy discomfort in the area of the rupture is one. This again, is aggravated by lifting or straining. Or you may notice the discomfort when you stand up after lying down, as when getting up in the morning or after a nap.

It is possible, but rather rare, for a rupture to be so located that an external bulge is not discernible.

In most cases the discomfort and annoyance of the rupture is sufficient to lead the sufferer to have treatment before it reaches a dangerous stage. Ruptures can be serious indeed. This depends largely on the location. If a loop or portion of the bowel gets through the ruptured place, and becomes trapped (strangulated), the blood supply to the trapped tissue is shut off.

This is extremely dangerous. It also will be extremely painful and requires emergency surgery.

TREATMENT WISE

So, of course, it is wise to have a rupture (or hernia) repaired before it gets to that stage, for the sake of safety and for the sake of your comfort in the meantime.

How to treat a rupture? The best way and the permanent one is to have it corrected surgically, and this is a type of operation which is performed very frequently. It's nothing to worry about.

Dear Dr. Molner: What vitamin, or combination of vitamins, is recommended for people with rheumatic heart disease?—H.H.

No special ones. Just the normal vitamins that anybody else needs. There are no vitamins that have a special relationship to the heart, any more than you need special ones for headaches, arthritis, ingrown toenails or anything else.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please tell me somthing about Lichen planus, and has it any relation to cancer? —M.B.

Lichen planus is a recurring, itchy inflammation of the skin. Although we do not know its cause, there is no indication that it has anything to do with cancer. (It tends to occur more often among high-strung, nervous individuals.)

There is no specific treatment because we don't know the cause, and haven't been lucky enough to find a cure by accident. The best course, therefore, is the use of medications to relieve itching and drugs to relax the patient, which may help.

Fighting Heavy

Somali Troops Invade Ethiopia

ADDIS ABABA (Reuters)—The Ethiopian government said Somali troops launched a "surprise attack" into Ethiopia Thursday, killing several members of the Ethiopian security forces.

Official reports reaching here said fighting was heavy and several Ethiopians were wounded.

FRONTIER POST

(In Mogadishu, a Somali information ministry spokesman said Ethiopian forces launched a massive attack on the Somali frontier post of Debogorialle.

MANY CLASHES

There have been many clashes along the 900-mile border in recent months.

A press release from the Ethiopian foreign ministry accused Somalia of a "deliberate act of aggression" at a time when delegations of the two countries were negotiating for a peaceful settlement of the border problem in Khartoum, Sudan.

DUAL DISPUTE

Somali is in dispute with both Ethiopia and Kenya after claiming sections of its common border regions as part of "greater Somalia."

Ethiopian Emperor Haile Selassie sent a cable to African heads of state expressing his "serious concern" that Somalia had "renewed hostilities and aggression against Ethiopia" and giving his foreign ministry's account of the latest border fighting.

Emotional Nehru Pleads for Peace

NEW DELHI (AP)—His voice heavy with emotion, Prime Minister Nehru appealed by radio Thursday to the people he has led for 17 years to halt bloody religious rioting.

The 74-year-old prime minister, weakened by a stroke, said religious fighting "is fatal for all of us."

Firms Must Clear Trees Before Dam Water Rises

The five—and probably others before the year is out—will try to clear all marketable timber from the basin before the waters of a gigantic power reservoir start building up behind the dam in late 1967 or 1968.

A B.C. Forest Service spokesman said Thursday more than half the timber in the basin has already been sold at public auctions over the last few months.

Another sale set for April 21 will boost the total under contract by 100,000,000 board feet to some $25,000,000.

The five firms sharing timber now sold are Cattermole Timber Co. of Chilliwack, Fort St. John Lumber Co., Interior Spruce Sawmills, Dyke Construction Ltd. and Strom Enterprises Ltd.

The spokesman said all the timber sales have carried performance clauses requiring the loggers to start work as soon as possible with an eye to clearing the whole basin as the flood waters rise.

"By the end of the year we hope to have clearing under way throughout the basin," he said. "But even at that they'll have to be awfully fast."

Under terms of the sale agreements the contractors are required to cut all marketable timber with a diameter of eight inches or a height of 10 feet.

Jury Finds Nine Guilty Of Great Train Robbery

AYLESBURY, England (AP)—A jury found nine men guilty yesterday on charges of taking part in Britain's great train robbery—the theft of $7,800,000 from the Glasgow-London mail train last Aug. 8.

The verdict came after three days of deliberation and a trial that lasted nine weeks.

Judge Edmund Davies said he would defer sentencing the convicted men until after the trial of eight other persons accused of complicity in the giant money snatch, the largest cash robbery in the annals of world crime.

These eight—including three women—were granted separate trials when the case was brought to court in January. Another defendant pleaded guilty and still another got a directed verdict of acquittal during the trial.

fc cut down on duplication in overhead at various administrative levels. The money saved will be put to good use providing essential equipment."

"There is really nothing new," said Admiral Landymore. "It is just another step."

* * *

He pointed out that a certain amount of integration already has taken place. He referred to the army's postal corps which handles mail for the three services, the tri-services colleges, the combined music school, chaplains, dental and medical department. The army's service corps is taking over the victualling of the navy April 1.

Admiral Landymore said he did not think there would be any rapid changes but the services would be put to better use where feasible.

"And I don't think we'll lose our traditions," he said.

"There is no question about it. The government has decided we will continue with a military policy designed in all its forms to provide stability to the international scene."

* * *

Col. Ramsay said that as a militiaman of almost 30 years he is vitally concerned with what is going to happen to Canada's militia. He said he thought many militiamen were concerned over the possibility of the introduction of a uniform uniform.

"There is a large amount of private investment in these uniforms," he said, "so I think any change will be very much in the future."

* * *

"But the main thing is to give the troops up-to-date equipment and enough of it. If unification will bring this about it will be a very desirable effect."

The cost of nuclear submarines, Admiral Landymore said, puts us "in a dollars and cents bracket for equipment which is way beyond any area for individual craft we have ever faced."

"The implication I gathered from the skeleton version of the White Paper which I read," the admiral continued, "was that the minister recognized the part of the nuclear submarine in the anti-submarine role and that it would now have to be examined in relation to dollars and cents."

* * *

"The government believes the navy should continue emphasizing in all our work the anti-submarine role. No doubt we can make our biggest contribution to our alliances by continuing to specialize in this field. Our past record bears this out. The RCAF's role and our role in this field are inseparable and we have made much progress.

"The suggestion has also been made that we have to be able to participate in peace-keeping duties and should have sea-lift as part of an anti-submarine force or a force with a separate identity for this purpose.

"If possibly in our main task of anti-submarine work we can develop the type of vehicle which can combine sea-lift capacity, it would be very desirable to do so.

* * *

"Since our primary task in all our armed forces appears to be helping to keep a stable world, the role of each is gradually coming closer together and this would indicate that some form of unification is inevitable.

"The extent or the speed undoubtedly will be a matter for considerable study but the guidelines have now been laid."

member in a position of having to do so," he said.

He accused the government of a "last-minute and arbitrary attempt to bulldoze through Parliament $240,000,000 in estimates within a few hours."

This action, he charged, denied an adequate examination of government accounts. The fiscal year ends Tuesday.

He said the government "forced" the Good Friday sitting on Parliament by its action. A Good Friday sitting was unprecedented.

WOULDN'T AGREE

Conservative Terry Nugent, Edmonton - Strathcona, refused to agree to an unscheduled sitting of the House later Thursday night or a sitting on Monday in an effort to clean up the supplementary spending estimates of the government for the current fiscal year ending March 31. They total $240,884,747.

He insisted the House should adjourn as scheduled for a 10-day Easter recess to April 6. Without unanimous consent, 48 hours' notice was necessary to avoid sitting on Good Friday.

Deputy Speaker Lucien Lamoureau paused for a brief moment after Mr. Nugent shouted his refusal to give unanimous consent, then adjourned the sitting overnight until 11 a.m.

RICHARD BOWER, Editor-in-Chief

The Armed Forces

THE WHITE paper on defence presented to Parliament yesterday had been foreshadowed by Mr. Hellyer's previously expressed views on service integration and it implements some recommendations of the Glassco Commission. The details are shown elsewhere in this issue, but in general it envisages a fundamental and sweeping change in the set-up of the armed forces.

The planned reorganization follows the line of the recent changes in the British command structure but it goes much further. It is here, however, in the higher echelons of direction, that the primary reconstruction will take place.

Instead of three chiefs of staff, of equal standing and each with direct approach to the defence ministry —and inevitably with conflicting service views—there will be one, an overall defence chief of staff who becomes the professional head of all the armed forces. This should make for swifter and more cohesive liaison with the ministry and ensure a uniform code of action, although it puts a grave responsibility on the single chief of staff with respect to strategy and tactics and also bears on the impartiality which, as a trained soldier, sailor or airman as the case may be, he can discharge so onerous a trust.

In essence the white paper starts at the top of the pyramid, and its effects are designed to percolate downwards in the gradual integration aimed at. There is no suggestion of an immediate single armed service, although this is held in long-range prospect and will not be easy to achieve even if it is thought basically desirable.

In this respect Mr. Hellyer says that esprit-de-corps by nature is associated with ships, or corps or regiments as well as with the particular service itself. These are rightly the core of traditional loyalties, but they might easily be negated if the white paper is carried out to the extreme of its intentions.

There will be general agreement, however, that unified administration of such things as supply, pay, medical and dental care, record keeping and the like, should eliminate the duplication that presently exists, and that integration can be a more efficient factor than co-operation balanced between service rivalries.

A creditable emphasis is thrown on the aim that more money should be available for weapons and equipment and less on "housekeeping." It is in the latter realm that immediate reorganization will take place. Overall defence personnel is to be reduced by about 20 per cent, with the cut falling on the "desk" army of service officials, uniformed and civilian alike. Currently there are about 8,000 of these at defence headquarters in Ottawa, which amply suggests that some weeding out would be beneficial.

This paring of personnel and the other changes in view are expected to save a billion dollars over the next ten years, which obviously if spent wisely in operational equipment will be of great gain. Of more importance, however, in the reorganization of the forces is the improved efficiency the white paper contemplates, and this will be the cardinal test of Mr. Hellyer's policies.

It is proposed also that the navy's "sea-life" be increased, which implies there must be enough ships afloat to carry out this aim and rather runs counter to the recent truncating of vessels already affected by the defence minister. There is the prospect perhaps of two or three nuclear submarines being built, one hopes this time in Canada, and the welcome idea of industrial leaders being consulted to help them in their plant planning in preparation for defence contracts.

Canada's international preparedness is based on the assumption that no nuclear war is likely and that this country's chief role is to have forces available for NATO and UN purposes. To this end the army's NATO brigade will be left in Europe and two home-based brigades will be equipped and trained as a mobile force for peace-keeping commitment.

The final act of service integration, the creation of a "triphibian," as Sir Winston Churchill called him, is yet a long term part of the white paper and as stated above posed with difficulty. Even so the minister foresees a single uniform at some time for all three services.

The advantage of this might well be challenged, since even in a single defence force there must be naval, army and air force divisions and the loyalties he mentioned are to be encroached upon with discretion. Nor since all servicemen must have a uniform is there much monetary saving to be had by cladding them alike. One is constrained to wonder also what this future serviceman may be termed, if he is neither soldier, sailor or airman.

Who Will Pay?

IN A RECENT edition of "The United Nations In Action", the official journal of the United Nations Association in Canada, the question is asked: "Who will pay for the UN?"

It is a good question. And, to date, it is one that hasn't an answer.

The hope expressed by U Thant earlier this year that many of the nations in arrears with their assessments would pay up has now dwindled almost to the disappearing point, due mainly to the fact that the Soviet Union has made it abundantly clear that it will not contribute financially to any of the UN peace-keeping forces now in existence.

The Soviet Union at present owes $37 million in assessments for The Congo force and $15.6 million for the Suez operation. In addition, other members of the Soviet bloc are in arrears on the two forces as follows: Ukraine, $6.7 million; Byelorussia, $1.7 million; Poland, $3.6 million; Czechoslovakia, $3.5 million; Hungary, $1.4 million; Romania, $1.3 million, and Bulgaria, $0.3 million.

The Soviet Union and most of its satellites are now subject to Article 19 of the UN Charter which provides that any member owing the equivalent of two years' contributions "shall have no vote in the General Assembly."

Also subject to the same Article are Nationalist China, in arrears $14.8 million on both budget and peace-keeping forces; the United Arab Republic, Yemen and several Latin American members.

France, who is in arrears $16.4 millions and Belgium, owing 3¼ million, both on The Congo account, will not come under Article 19 until 1965.

Forty-six member governments of the United Nations have paid nothing at all toward the Suez and Congo operations.

Obviously, as the Canadian UN journal says, the Soviets are counting on wide support in their declared policy of refusing to pay what they owe.

". . . anyway, it's better to have a rumor about defence policy than no defence policy at all!"

Thinking Aloud

By TOM TAYLOR

I AM inclined to think that secretly at least most men like to wear a uniform. Nor does the rush to get out of one following a global war deny my fancy.

On sober reflection, afterwards, a lot of them are glad to put on the military glad rags again, as you may observe at many a social function.

I was moved to this profound reflection by a picture of the young man who has succeeded his mother in the grand duchy of Luxembourg. He is depicted in army uniform.

* * *

Now this isn't astonishing, for ever since the beginning of time, it seems, the rulers, nominal or actual, have had a liking for military dress. Once of course and indeed for many a long year they led their troops in battle, a favorite pursuit as any reading of history amply makes clear. This was the chief sport of kings and their like.

For all that nowadays we have bigger wars than any of these martial leaders dreamed of, however, the practice is not quite the same. The rulers, royalty or otherwise, don't today marshal their men behind them. But the fondness for a uniform persists.

Without prejudice to the young Luxembourg grand duke I couldn't help but wonder about the army of which, presumably, he is the titular head. This cosy little state is about one-twelfth the area of Vancouver Island and I shouldn't have thought it even had an army.

Or that today especially it could have any realistic function.

But the grand duke merely falls in line. If you see the picture of supreme VIPs grouped together, whether of the blood royal or of heads of state of varying degrees, you cannot escape the plethora of uniforms. And so often with chests burdened with rows of decorations into the bargain.

They all have a quite galliard air.

Many of them, too, haven't even actively engaged in the pursuit so favored by their more distant predecessors, and one is perhaps induced to ponder sometimes whence came all the medal ribbons.

It's all part of the heritage, I suppose, and national leadership—and blood royal per se derived from community headship originally, agriculture chiefs, I understand — has always been wont to wear the dress of ascendancy.

And, because of the history aforementioned, this became associated primarily with the martial role.

* * *

The need has gone but the legacy lingers on.

There is, of course, and this must be taken into account, the factor I mentioned at the outset. The swank of a uniform.

A man looks twice his worth when so accoutred, as many a war veteran of more humble station probably recalls with some chagrin. This was the heyday of his physical attraction, and, alas, it has passed.

A grand duke or a king or a president, no doubt, being at bottom simply another human being, is encompassed of the same vanity. Although I will admit the New World isn't quite so fond of the fashion. In the northern half of it, anyway.

But to dress to suit the state occasion elsewhere, it seems, a uniform is the thing.

Canada and the Middle East

Important Contacts With Israel

By HOWARD GREEN
Former Secretary of State for External Affairs

SHORTLY after Cyprus gained her independence in 1961 Canada appointed a high commissioner in the person of Miss Margaret Meagher who was also ambassador to Israel—and a very successful one.

It is about two hundred miles from Israel to Cyprus and the arrangement made was that Miss Meagher, while continuing to live in Israel, would visit Cyprus three or four times a year. We had neither the personnel nor the money to set up a separate mission on the island. This same plan has been followed by her successor—Arthur Andrew—also an excellent ambassador.

Now that Canadian troops are stationed in Cyprus as part of a United Nations force it may be necessary to make some change and I understand that Mr. Andrew has been ordered to stay in Cyprus for the time being. This means that he can do little in Israel.

It would be very unfortunate if there were any weakening of our mission in Israel—no matter what develops in Cyprus—for our contacts with her are of great importance and have been increasing steadily.

* * *

That young nation already has amazing accomplishments to her credit both at home and abroad.

Probably many Canadians realize in a vague sort of way that the Israelis—starting from scratch after the war, and in spite of many handicaps—have made their country one of the most efficient in the world, and in so doing developed a spirit which is not excelled in any other nation.

But few know that these remarkable people are also carrying on extensive aid programs in Asia and Africa designed to help less fortunate countries—and also I presume to gain friends for Israel.

For example they have given extensive aid to Burma including the dispatch of experts to that country and bringing its young men and women to Israel for training.

Similar programs have been carried out with Ghana and other countries of Africa. This is done in a practical down-to-earth way and without any stigma of charity.

When Mrs. Meier, the foreign minister of Israel, visited Ottawa in 1962 she explained to me that they had found it beneficial to send out a few farmers as ambassadors to Africa and Asian countries. These men were instructed to learn the problems of the farmers in the country to which they were posted and to offer solutions on a person to person basis.

* * *

This is so different from Canadian—and American—diplomatic custom that it is hard to visualize a Canadian diplomat going to a foreign country and doing work there of this type. Certainly there is no protocol involved in such representation —but there is a maximum of common sense and effectiveness. The Israelis deserve the good results they are achieving. Other countries could learn much from them on the best way to provide external aid.

This policy is paying Israel good dividends at the United Nations. There she is frequently under attack from the Arab countries but is able to get support from these other nations which have received generous and practical help.

Mrs. Meier herself has been one of the main reasons Israel has extensive support. One of the most experienced foreign ministers appearing at the annual meetings of the General Assembly, she speaks well and forthrightly — and at the same time is friendly in her dealings with other delegations. She has given her country excellent representation.

The Israel foreign service generally has been built up very carefully and in Ottawa the country has had outstanding ambassadors. One reason for this no doubt is that many Canadians have contributed to the cost of developing Israel, have relations or friends there, or have visited Israel and seen for themselves the remarkable progress being made.

Canada in turn has been well represented in Israel. In addition she has an ambassador in Lebanon who is also accredited to Iraq and one in the United Arab Republic who represents us as well in the Sudan.

In the Gaza Strip which is U.A.R. territory, she has about 900 young men with the United Nations Emergency Force; on the borders of Israel with Jordan, Syria and Lebanon she has truce supervisory officers under the United Nations, and now a short distance away out on the island of Cyprus there are over 1,000 other young Canadians.

We are making a big and worthwhile peace-keeping effort in the Middle East. For years it has been a danger spot and on more than one occasion might easily have become the starting point for a third world war.

No one can tell what the future will bring in this area but if eventually there is a peaceful settlement of the various disputes which now seem so insoluble, some of the credit should go to our own country.

Today In History

France ratified the Paris agreements nine years ago today — in 1955 — to create the Western European Union and authorize a West German army of 12 divisions, to grant it sovereignty and end occupation, to admit it to NATO and to Europeanize the Saar.

Exterior Design Control

CONCERN over the exterior appearance of such properties as that of Harry Haigh on Rockland Avenue are well-merited. Neighbors have a right to complain and seek action to have such eyesores removed in order to maintain the beauty of any neighborhood. Similarly, any citizen should have the right to protest any ugliness or unsightliness of buildings which confront him during his daily movements about his city.

The beauty of Victoria is being marred by tasteless construction which are appearing more and more frequently in our midst, many in the form of apartment boxes that fulfill only the minimum requirements of the law.

In order to keep construction costs at a minimum most of these monstrosities are shorn of any architectural embellishments that might cover their shame. However, some seek to flaunt their ugliness and, like a Jezebel, adorn themselves with plastic or plywood panels in violent and obnoxious colors.

It is far more undemocratic to permit these atrocities than it is to set up some form of design control so that Victoria will become a place of beauty and charm rather than a tasteless accumulation of vulgar exhibits.

Real Socialism

Your editorial says that Lord Blakenham, minister without portfolio in Douglas-Home's cabinet, was violently attacked by Socialist MPs because he is paid a salary of approximately $15,000 a year.

The Socialist Party of Great Britain has no MPs in the British House of Commons, although it is fielding three candidates in the coming election.

The British "Labor" Party MPs support the same general program for British capitalism that the Conservative Party MPs do, while offering reforms and promises to the working class electorate. The SPGB contends that the poverty and insecurity of the majority is not caused partially nor wholly by high taxes or high salaries to MPs.

It is the only party in England that advocates common (not state) ownership and democratic control of the means of production and distribution by and in the interest of society as a whole.

Able to Help

It is a tribute to Canada that our armed services are as acceptable to the Greeks and Turks in Cyprus as they were to the Africans in The Congo.

This may be because our "stereotype" is not yet identifiable with the managerial societies of either the U.S.A. or the U.S.S.R.

We are happily yet, a nation undecided about our image: a nation unafraid of public divisions; a nation not yet cast in the mold of nationalism and because of this tolerance of ambiguity a nation others recognize as able to contribute to the solution of international problems.

Perhaps those who would seek a substitute for the "red duster" might provide a permanent inspiration to the world by thinking in terms of an ensign that would depict our faith in the United Nations Organization, as the ultimate social instrument, for equality of opportunity for all men within the framework of law.

Earned Care

Leave the veteran's hospitals alone, would, I feel sure, be the reaction of practically every Canadian who recognizes the value of these institutions; and even more the fact that the veterans have earned, the hard way, every care and consideration to the end of their lives.

There must be many more ways of saving money than at the expense of the veterans through integration of DVA hospitals with other public institutions, and their consequent unspecialized care. Who knows men may be needed again some day!

McNaughton Plan

"OTTAWA—Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, soldier, scientist, and statesman, has become the first Canadian to receive the founders award of the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers. The award by the international organization with a membership of 172,000 in 32 countries is given only to outstanding persons of unquestioned merit."

This contrasts very sharply with Mr. Williston's reported description of the general.

Surely Canadians will wake up before it is too late to the merits of the McNaughton Plan for the Columbia River as opposed to the betrayal of Canada's interests, embodied in the present treaty, which is the handiwork of political negotiators opposed by the very efficient U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. If not, let us ask the Delighted States to rewrite our national anthem, for surely if this treaty is ratified, we can no longer sing, "O Canada, we stand on guard for thee."

High-Rises

With regard to the Lansdowne area involved concerning high-rise apartments, I am opposed to having monstrosities erected that would just spoil the entire approach.

The ratepayers have great pride in their homes and feel this would just downgrade their property, etc., making it like any other district in Victoria, and other cities in North America.

As you know, this particular area is the only decent one left so why spoil it for the sake of a few more dollars. Let it remain as a park—as it was meant to in the first place.

He Acts Relaxed

By RICHARD JACKSON
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

I WONDER if Finance Minister Gordon, under pressure the last few days of the budget debate, has recalled his well-remembered post-election words of last spring.

If he did, it must have been a bit wistfuly.

For it was only about 10 days after the election, while awaiting his appointment by Prime Minister Pearson to the cabinet, that he wished out loud, and publicly enough to get between quotation marks, he wouldn't find himself landing in the finance department.

He gave the oddest—as things have turned out—reason for actively not wanting that department.

Essentially he was lazy, he confessed with a wry grin, and if he wound up as finance minister he'd "really have to work at taking it easy."

* * *

It's an under-statement to say that he hasn't had a moment of ease-taking since.

Being finance minister, as he probably knew all along, was an extremely hard way of working at "taking it easy," in fact, just about the hardest way to be found anywhere in this vast bureaucracy.

But then, nobody really could have taken him seriously when he spoke of his yen for the lazy life, for you don't pile up his $12,000,000 to $19,000,000 personal fortune simply by going through the pleasant process of relaxing.

This finance minister happens to be the best living proof on Parliament Hill that appearances can be deceiving.

For he looks relaxed, acts relaxed, and even when under fire—and few finance ministers have been subjected to such intense political heat—apparently, if bafflingly so, actually IS relaxed.

Perhaps it is this politically invaluable quality of being able to roll with the punch that has made survival possible.

* * *

No finance minister in these past 25 years, not even Donald Fleming when he so clumsily fumbled the firing of Bank of Canada Governor James Coyne has taken anywhere near the brutal beating that Walter Gordon took and shrugged off, and come back smiling.

The Opposition gave him a savage roughing last year when he made what even his cabinet colleagues admitted was an all but politically disastrous mess of the budget.

And though the Opposition, particularly the Conservatives, did their desperate best—or, if you look at it the other way, their worst—to ridicule and humiliate him, he didn't lose his temper, sulk or do any of those things that most people seem to do when they feel fate's conspiring against them.

* * *

Then, they tore strips off him for trying—and worse, miserably failing—too many new and tradition-trampling things with the budget, like importing "ghost writers" from Bay Street, and experimenting with taxes that just wouldn't work.

Now they have been pasting him for not doing enough, for sitting far too pat.

And still they haven't been able to needle him.

The Opposition can roar and work itself into quite a rage, but the finance minister remains cool, even at times, it seems, detached.

If they could anger him, just occasionally. If they could find a way to taunt him so that he would snarl back and get into a slanging match with them, then perhaps they might begin to have him on the political run.

But even if last year's budget was a calamitous failure, and this one an unimaginative and undistinguished mediocrity, Walter Gordon, almost alone in the Commons, seems amiably unaware of it.

* * *

He makes the vastly complicated business of the budget look almost easy, even offhand.

He has a kind of casual way about him that baffles the Opposition.

What a contrast to former Finance Minister Fleming whose very intensity so often got him into such hot water.

You couldn't, in wildest imagination, ever conceive of Walter Gordon glorying in telling the Commons that to work, as Finance Minister Fleming exulted he did, for 100 to 120 hours a week was something of an ecstasy.

He might in his secret heart even feel that way, too, but he would be far too urbane to blurt it out to an astonished House.

Flower, Candy Sales Booming

By MIKE GADSBY

Flower and candy sales in the Greater Victoria area are increasing as Easter approaches, to prove that this second most important Christian holiday also has a light-hearted appeal to children and grownups alike.

Lilies are still the most popular of Easter flowers, but hydrangeas, chrysanthemums and various cut flowers are also popular.

However, Victoria florists don't do as big a business at Easter as do most other Canadian centres, since many flowers are already in bloom here in private gardens.

As far as children are concerned, the real joy of Easter comes with holidays and candy — chocolate bunnies, chocolate easter eggs, chocolate chickens and a variety of other decorated candies.

To add spice to the event, these goodies are usually hidden in obvious places around the home so children can have the pleasure of finding them on Easter morning.

But even these light-hearted aspects of Easter have religious roots.

* * *

Eggs have been exchanged since ancient times as a symbol of new life. Ancient Egyptians and Persians used to dye them in Spring colors and give them to friends.

The Persians once believed the earth had been hatched from a giant egg.

Rabbits came into the picture when a story that suggested rabbits bring Easter eggs gained popularity in England. Chickens have appeared fairly recently, possibly because they lay eggs, but more probably to provide a greater variety in Easter goodies.

Bandit Shoots, Shot

In dramatic few seconds in Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce branch on Toronto's Yonge Street, Gordon Dennis Peterson, 38, of Lethbridge, Alta., held up bank for $2,000, fired four point-blank shots at city plainclothes policeman Robert Dixon, 37, and was killed himself by Dixon. In sequence taken by hidden bank camera, at left, Dixon grabs Peterson; centre, Peterson fires at constable, one shot hitting belt buckle and inflicting flesh wound; and right, Dixon tries to head off bandit before he escaped out door and was shot dead.—(CP Photofax)

Boys, Girls Distract Each Other

VANCOUVER (CP)—Teachers in North Vancouver have come out in favor of biological separatism.

In a resolution to be presented to the B.C. Teachers' Federation annual convention next week, they suggest separate secondary schools for boys and girls on an experimental basis.

The teachers, say mutual attraction of boys and girls "tends to provide unnecessary distraction from the learning situation."

Chrysler Moving To Canada

WINDSOR, Ont. (UPI) — Chrysler Corporation will transfer part of its engine production from Detroit to Windsor at the end of the 1964 model year, company officals said Thursday.

Officials declined to discuss the amount of production involved. However, they said some engine block casting and machine work of engine parts would be moved from the parent company plants to Chrysler of Canada.

Union spokesmen in Detroit have claimed the move will throw 130 workers out of jobs in the U.S. motor city.

The production transfer is believed to be the first step in a major attempt by Chrysler to take advantage of the Canadian government's export - incentive plan for the automobile industry under which exports to the U.S. can be used to earn tariff rebates on parts imported into Canada.

Bribery Disproven 10 Years Ago

VANCOUVER (CP) — Retired RCMP Sgt. Ernest Nuttall said here he was cleared 10 years ago of bribery charges only now being introduced as prosecution evidence in the Seattle murder trial of Canadian John Wasylenchuk.

Nuttall said that a few weeks after the 1954 Seattle bank holdup for which Wasylenchuk is being tried on charges of murder and robbery a report was submitted to RCMP Superintendent George Archer alleging someone had bribed him.

"The investigation lasted 18 months," Nuttall said. "Finally Archer called me to his office and told me that I had been cleared.

"The following week I was promoted to sergeant."

Diversion Fails

U.S. Senate Clears Way For Civil Rights Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate cleared the way Thursday for the main battle over the U.S. civil rights bill by refusing to send the explosive measure to the judiciary committee for 10 days.

The 50-to-34 vote came a few hours after a 67-to-17 decision to take up the bill, a motion which had been debated for 15 days, with Southern foes of the legislation doing most of the talking. These results heartened civil rights advocates although both were mere preliminaries to the big debate starting Monday.

Thursday's showdown vote was on a motion by Majority Leader Mike Mansfield (Dem. Mont.) to table or kill a motion by Senator Wayne Morse (Dem. Ore.) to send the bill to the Southern - dominated judiciary group.

It was a major victory for U.S. administration leaders and the bipartisan group supporting the bill. But this first test of strength was not a true indicator of the outlook since several backers of the legislation wanted to send it to the committee for at least a brief look.

When the Senate buckles down to debate Monday, following a three-day Easter recess, the civil rights measure is expected to occupy its full attention for weeks and possibly months. Southern foes have made it clear they will stage what their opponents call a filibuster and the Southerners call educating the Senate and the public.

Voting for the motion by Mansfield to take up the bill were 41 Democrats and 26 Republicans. Thirty - four Democrats and 16 Republicans voted to table Morse's motion to refer the legislation to the judiciary committee. Nine Republicans joined 25 Democrats in opposing the motion to table.

Morse said sending the bill to committee would "give us the best chance of getting adoption of a strong measure." He wants to strengthen the bill passed by the House of Representatives Feb. 10.

Mansfield, before making his non-debatable motion to table Morse's motion, said that to send the bill to committee now would mean a "most unconscionable delay."

Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona, who interrupted his campaigning for the Republican presidential nomination for the November U.S. election, supported Morse in the debate. He called the bill revolutionary "with one of the most sweeping grants of authority that we have ever contemplated delegating to the executive establishment."

Split 12 Years Ago

Tanker Torn Apart For Second Time

BOSTON (UPI) — The tanker San Jacinto, split in half yesterday by an explosion off Virginia, was torn apart 12 years ago off Cape Cod in 80-mile-an-hour winds and 68-foot seas.

The Coast Guard recalled the vessel, then named the Fort Mercer, and another tanker, the Pendleton, were coming up the eastern coast about 20 miles apart when caught in the violent gale Feb. 18, 1952.

Within several hours both of them were split in half.

Of the 84 persons aboard both ships, 70 were saved by the Coast Guard after they clung to sections of their vessels.

Eventually the stern of the Mercer was towed to Block Island, R.I., another bow was welded onto it and in 1953 it was renamed the San Jacinto.

Rich Garbage

VANCOUVER (CP) — Detectives spent 2½ hours forking over contents of a garbage truck before finding $440 believed stolen from a home. The money, part of a $4,000 theft, was traced to a motel where it had apparently been hidden in a food container. The container had been thrown into the garbage by a maid before police arrived.

Nuns' Way of Life

Unique Cancer Study

PALM BEACH SHORES, Fla. (AP)—An unprecedented study of the health records of thousands of Roman Catholic nuns indicates that the incidence of cancer—and distribution of its site of occurrence—among nuns is different "from that of their fellow women of America."

The evidence suggests the difference is due to their way of life.

ANNUAL SEMINAR

This was reported yesterday to the sixth annual seminar for science writers sponsored by the American Cancer Society.

Dr. James T. Nix of New Orleans said the study was aimed primarily at collecting and verifying the cause of death of nuns from 262 communities in the United States with a nun population of 116,173, during 1963.

CLARIFY CAUSES

It was felt, he said, that "comparison with known data on the cause of death of lay women over 20 years of age in the United States will clarify the relationship of celibacy, abstinence from alcohol and cigarette smoking, and other environmental factors to the type of cancer causing death in women."

Describing the report as preliminary, Dr. Nix said it is based on 1,116 deaths among the 116,173 nuns, and a study of various other things such as the frequency of lung cancer and of gallstones.

FINDINGS

Among the findings:

1. A confirmation of previous, undocumented impressions that nuns rarely get cancer of the cervix, the entrance of the womb. The theory is, said Dr. Nix, that this infrequency of cervix cancer can be attributed to celibacy and virginity.

2. Deaths from cancer of the breast, womb and ovary were relatively frequent, however, with their number possibly explainable, the doctor indicated, by a life without pregnancy and breast feeding.

3. A pilot study of lung cancer incidence — undertaken among a population where cigarette smoking is forbidden and "exposure to smoke is largely limited to vigil lights and kitchen ranges"—showed only 33 cases of this disease among 100,000 nuns admitted to 500 Catholic hospitals over a 10-year period.

"Primary carcinoma of the lung is less frequent in nuns than in the general population," Nix said.

4. Among 146 deaths from various kinds of cancer, malignancies of the digestive organs, especially the large intestine, ranked highest. Breast cancer was next.

Want Public to Know

Farmers Don't Share In Milk Price Hike

The one-cent increase in the wholesale and retail prices of milk is not being shared by dairy farmers, a spokesman for the milk producers said yesterday.

Dairy distributors in Victoria raised the wholesale price by one cent and were followed by some retailers who said it would have to be passed on to the public.

At a meeting of the Island Milk Producers' Organization yesterday it was decided to advise the public that the increase is not shared by the primary produeer.

The producer organization has about 100 members and covers all of Vancouver Island, director Edward Raper of Keating said yesterday.

PRODUCERS QUITTING

"Producers are going out of business left and right just because there isn't enough money in it," he said, "but we want the public to know we are not sharing in the rise in the milk price."

"Looking for an easier way to a better lawn?

says John Bradshaw, gardening authority

"One application of Greenfield Controlled Release Lawn Food gets your grass off to an earlier, healthier start than is possible with ordinary fertilizers. In fact you can see the difference in 7 days.

"How is this easier? Because it eliminates a lot of problems later on. A thick early carpet of grass tends to smother any weeds that might be thinking of growing there. And continued steady growth keeps the weeds at bay all season. Greenfield promotes that steady growth by releasing just the right amount of nitrogen daily. You see, Greenfield puts the nitrogen into tiny "time pills" so that it is fed to the grass as needed over a two month period. You can relax while science does its work.

"Yet Greenfield Controlled Release Lawn Food costs no more."

Get Greenfield products at your hardware or gardening supply dealer. They're designed to let you care for your lawn and garden "the easier way."

Trans Canada Dividend
Pipelines Pay Off

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. brought itself into the dividend-paying class Thursday when it announced it would institute a quarterly payment of 25 cents a share, beginning April 30.

The longest natural gas pipe line in the world, it has cost about $400,000,000 to build, and it carries natural gas from the Canadian west coast to Ontario, Quebec, and many parts of the U.S.

Demand for natural gas served by the pipeline company has grown faster than expected, and the announcement of the dividend came as a pleasant surprise to the market.

The stock, now selling at $27⅛, is up from $21¼ little more than a year ago. The company has about 4,500,000 shares outstanding so that the initial dividend will give a cash distribution of over $1,100,000 to shareholders.

CONFIDENCE OOZES

The Toronto Stock Exchange had its biggest day in 18 months in the pre-Easter holiday session Thursday. Over 7,000,000 shares were traded during the day, and the trend was generally upward.

While most of the action came from speculative mining issues, there was also solid support for the blue chips that point the finger to the national economy.

New highs were recorded in many issues, including B.C. Forest Products, Aluminium Ltd., Consolidated Mining and Smelting, Imperial Oil, Du Pont of Canada, Canada Iron, Trans Canada Pipe Lines and Trans Mountain Pipe Lines.

Recent expression of high confidence in the economy by Finance Minister Walter Gordon appears finally to have convinced Canadian investors that Canadian stocks are not just following Wall Street upwards, but have merit in themselves.

Mr. Gordon said this week the prospects for 1964 are very good; unemployment is less than in recent years at this time, and he did not think that the country needed the stimulus of a tax cut.

The finance minister said that even with the new U.S. tax cut, Canadians in the under $10,000 bracket pay less than corresponding U.S. taxpayers do, and only those in the higher ranges are more heavily taxed than in the U.S.

His belief that he can get the revenue he requires from the additional sales tax on building materials—to come into force April 1—will be hailed with some satisfaction by all those who are outside the construction business.

Mr. Gordon's view is that the sales tax on building materials will do the country much less harm than additional general taxation, which would otherwise have been necessary.

The finance minister's assurances on the state of the economy would appear to have removed doubts from investors' minds that Canadian stocks are moving higher than is justified.

BRIGHTER DAYS AHEAD

Brighter days are foreseen for Aluminium Ltd., the giant Canadian aluminum refining company, which since 1957, along with other firms in the white metal industry, has been deep in the doldrums.

World price for the metal has risen recently between 1 and 1½ cents a pound, and world demand is now catching up on smelting capacity.

Earlier this month the capacity of the Kitimat smelter owned by Aluminium Ltd., chief subsidiary, Alcan, had its capacity raised by 20,000 tons to 212,000 tons a year.

Now another $1,000,000 is to be spent on completing potline facilities for another 20,000 tons a year.

When this new phase is completed in 1965, Kitimat will be within 80,000 tons of its first stage target of 312,000 tons a year.

Expansion work was suspended in 1957 when much work had been done on the preliminary stages so that the new potlines can come into production at relatively short notice.

Alcan is also preparing plans for stepping up the capacity of its Quebec smelters.

Most Spent For Worst

Mr. Bennett told a press conference B.C.'s aim at next week's federal-provincial fiscal conference in Quebec will be "to get the federal government back on the rails."

COMMISSION URGED

He said B.C. isn't opposed to equalization payments as such, but feels any grants to "have-not" provinces should be handled by an independent commission similar to one in Australia.

Such a commission would be obliged, he suggested, to make allowances for the cost of providing services within a province. Under a realistic system of equalization, he felt B.C. would receive an additional $24,000,000 and Ontario $100,000,000.

Mr. Bennett said the present system discourages growth in Canada's prosperous regions.

"If a farmer had 160 acres and 100 were good land and the remainder rocky, where should he spend his money?" he asked rhetorically.

"The present system is the equivalent of the farmer's spending all his money on the rocky land. That's no way to run a farm or a country."

Four Drown One Missing

BOYNTON BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A large wave capsized a 65-foot sport-fishing boat within 50 yards of shore Wednesday, spilling 20 persons into the turbulent waters of Boynton Beach inlet. Four were killed and at least a half-dozen others were trapped for horrifying minutes beneath the overturned craft. Hours after the tragedy, one person was still missing.

Five for Bank Board

Premier Bennett said yesterday five men have agreed to become directors of the proposed new Bank of British Columbia.

The premier said he could not yet name the five, but that all have agreed to put up $5,000 bonds required under the Bank Act.

He told a press conference a bill seeking a federal charter for the government-sponsored bank is now being drawn up and will be presented to the senate "soon."

The bill will have to be approved by both houses of Parliament before the bank is established.

The premier said all five directors will be British Columbians, none provincial cabinet ministers or MLAs.

Students Protest In Korea

SEOUL (UPI) — More than 60,000 students yesterday staged massive protest demonstrations against South Korean-Japanese normalization talks for the third consecutive day in defiance of warnings from President Park Chung Hee.

There were no reports of major violence in Seoul and 10 other cities where students marched through the streets and shouted slogans against the current talks in Tokyo. Opposition politicians also staged demonstrations in Seoul.

It was the biggest turnout of students since the student-led riots of April, 1960, which culminated with the overthrow of the Syngman Rhee regime.

At least two students were arrested and several injured when troops used rifle butts to push back a crowd.

Canadiens Blank Leafs—Hawks Whip Wings

It Was That Kind of a Night

Tone of last night's Stanley Cup battle between Montreal and Toronto is set by this first-period shot in Montreal, as Canadiens' rookie Jim Roberts (left) and Leaf defenceman Bobby Baun brandish sticks menacingly while linesman prepares to move in. Total of 32 penalties were called, setting playoff record, as Canadiens won, 2-0.—(CP Wirephoto)

Penalty Record Broken

By BILL MacDOUGALL

MONTREAL (CP)—Goaltending king Charlie Hodge continued his domination over Toronto Maple Leafs Thursday night as Montreal Canadiens defeated Toronto 2-0 in a penalty-filled first game of their Stanley Cup semi-final that sent everyone scurrying for record books.

STUCK TO BUSINESS

The little goaltender was one of the few players on the ice concerned about hockey as the Canadiens built up a 1-0 series lead to take into the second game of the best-of-seven series here Saturday night.

The rest of the players spent their time getting penalties.

The two clubs broke the playoff record for the highest number of penalties in a single period and the highest number in a game. The Canadiens tied the playoff record for most penalties by one team in a game.

CONTINUES MASTERY

In the meantime Hodge was busy playing a steady game to shut Toronto out for the fifth time this year—he got four of his eight shutouts against Toronto during the regular season.

Only in the third period when the Leafs, inept for much of the game, got on the attack more consistently was he busy. He made 14 saves in the last period, compared with six in the first period and five in the second.

Right winger Bernie Geoffrion and Ralph Backstrom scored the goals.

IT WAS ROUGH

The two clubs piled up a total of 31 penalties, breaking the playoff record of 29 the Leafs and Detroit Red Wings set at Detroit March 25, 1952.

With 16 penalties, the Canadiens tied the playoff record set by Boston Bruins in 1927 and tied by New York Rangers in 1930 and Toronto in a March 25, 1952 game at Detroit.

The clubs wasted no time in heading for the penalty box. Frank Mahovlich of Toronto went off for slashing Balon when the game was only a minute and six seconds old.

WISE PRECAUTION

A minute and 14 seconds later, Forum officials were probably patting themselves on the backs for having divided the Canadiens' and visitors' side of the box early this season. John Ferguson and Jean Beliveau of Canadiens and Bob Pulford and Bob Baun of Toronto all joined Mahovlich.

The four started mixing it up—switching opponents in the middle of their tussle—after Beliveau charged Pulford. It was a relatively tame fight.

Dave Keon of Toronto was caught for tripping Jean-Guy Talbot and the Montreal defenceman for interfering with Keon at 2:39. Mahovlich argued too vociferously with referee Frank Udvari over that call and had a 10-minute misconduct slapped on to his original minor.

BATHGATE, TOO

Andy Bathgate of Toronto and Montreal's J. C. Tremblay squared off and were assessed majors for fighting at 4:53. The rest of the penalties—and they kept coming as Udvari ruled like a discipline-conscious parent—were all minors.

It was while Leafs were short a man after the early spate of penalties that Geoffrion put Montreal ahead 1-0 at 6:53. Talbot fired from the point to Provost at Johnny Bower's left.

IT WAS EASY

The veteran goaltender went down to smother an expected shot from Provost and the Canadien slipped the puck across the goalmouth to Geoffrion at the other corner. It was almost impossible for the winger to make a mistake in scoring the 56th playoff goal of his career.

Backstrom made it 2-0 at 9:32 of the second period from a goalmouth scramble. Provost and Balon, who with Backstrom had been buzzing around Bower's doorstep, got assists.

CHARLIE HODGE ... Toronto jinx

STAN MIKITA ... three points

Pint-Sized Hodge Giant to Toronto

By JOE DUPUIS

MONTREAL (CP)—"No explanation for it," goalie Charlie Hodge said simply. "I just hope it keeps up."

In the crowded Montreal Canadiens' dressing room, pint-size Charlie looked mighty small. But on the Forum ice, which he had just left, he was a giant against Toronto Maple Leafs, getting to be country cousins of his.

Coach Toe Blake said: "I knew there would be a lot of penalties in this game, but, brother, I didn't expect there would be that many."

CAN PLAY ROUGH

"I felt all year long we could play rough if we had to," said Frank Selke Sr., the team's managing - director. "But we don't want to. It's good when you don't have to."

Claude Provost, victim of a rarely - called faceoff penalty, was ripping mad. "I was along the boards with (Allan) Stanley at the faceoff. We came together when the puck was dropped. Then, I heard the referee ask Hayes (linesman George Hayes) who it was. He said one from both sides. Usually, the referee will warn you not to do it again. But not this time. No warning, he just told me to go off—poof, just like that."

LEAFS GRIPE, TOO

Penalties were the gripe too in the subdued Toronto dressing room. Red Kelly, who missed a golden opportunity to score in the third period, was incensed because Canadiens weren't called for having too many men on the ice when Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion scored the opening goal in the first period.

Hodge, who had a span of 217 minutes, 55 seconds in consecutive shutout time against the Leafs during the regular schedule, said he was lucky once. That was on Kelly's near-goal.

"He had me beat all right," Hodge said. "I went down on another play, and saw Kelly taking his shot. I tried to get back up, but the puck just missed the net. I couldn't believe it. I guess he didn't get a good enough piece of the puck and so couldn't control it."

Detroit Wastes Chances

By TOM WILLIAMS

CHICAGO (CP) — Chicago Black Hawks turned on the power for three goals in the third period Thursday night to beat Detroit Red Wings 4-1 and take a one-game lead in their best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final.

The Hawks, who finished second in the National Hockey League's regular season, were outplayed in the first two periods by the fourth-place Wings and were outshot all the way. But they made the most of their chances to hold the score to a 1-1 tie starting the third.

Pierre Pilote, Murray Balfour and Stan Mikita scored the third-period goals as the Hawks took control over the tiring Wings. Detroit's Andre Pronovost and Chicago's Ab McDonald exchanged first - period goals.

GOALIES SHINE

Both Glenn Hall in the Chicago nets and Terry Sawchuk for Detroit made phenomenal saves in the hard-hitting contest, which see-sawed between rugged, close checking and wide-open, breakaway-style hockey.

Hall stopped 34 shots and Sawchuk 25. Sawchuk robbed Hawks' big guns, Bobby Hull and Mikita—the league's one-two scoring leaders over the regular schedule — on clean breakaways.

Hall played solidly all the way, stopping big shots by Wings' perennial leader, Gord Howe, and Alex Delvecchio and Marcel Pronovost.

In one amazing display, he performed highway robbery on Delvecchio, Floyd Smith and Parker MacDonald, scrambling around the crease to stop half-a-dozen hard shots in a space of about 20 seconds in the second period.

Hull and Howe, two of the all-time greats of the NHL, played opposite each other most of the way and Hull appeared to have the better of the exchange. He was constantly dangerous and picked up two assists. Howe had a few good chances, but appeared unable to get untracked.

WINGS GO AHEA D

Detroit took the lead at 12:16 of the first period, with Andre Pronovost poking in a rebound after Hall had saved on rookie Pit Martin's loblied backhand shot from about 15 feet out.

McDonald tied it at 1-1 less than a minute later, when he took Pilote's pass at the Detroit blueline, drove straight in on the left wing and drilled a shot past Sawchuk's outstretched glove to the far corner.

After a stretch of about five minutes of close checking in the third, Pilote shot the Hawks into the lead with a blistering 20-Sawchuk cleanly on the short footer from the point that beat side.

Less than two minutes later, Balfour, making his first appearance for Hawks since Jan. 23, tipped Bill Hay's goalmouth pass high past a sprawling Sawchuk to make it 3-1.

Mikita's power-play goal put the game out of Wings' reach at 16:23. The puck bounced out to the shifty centre at the point after Pilote's shot from the other point hit the backboards and rebounded. Mikita slapped the puck as soon as he got it and the rising shot was in the net before Sawchuk could move.

Competing in the girls' tournament will be teams from Brentwood, Nanaimo, Metropolitan United, Duncan, First United, Alberni, Cordova Bay and Cumberland.

In the boys' tournament will be St. Louis College, Duncan, Victoria Basketball Association, Sayward, Vancouver Fraserview, Nanaimo, Brentwood and Alberni.

Chicago's Defence Makes Coach Happy

CHICAGO (AP)—"We played our best defensive game in quite some time—and if I have any worries right now they are about the condition of Murray Balfour."

That summed up the feelings Thursday night of Bill Reay, the quiet coach of Chicago Black Hawks who defeated Detroit Red Wings 4-1 to open the best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final.

Balfour was one of the surprises of the night. The veteran right wingman has been sidelined with a groin injury since Jan. 23. In his first time on the ice in competition since then, he poked in the Hawks' second goal, at 8:27 of the third period.

"Balfour tells me he is all right now and I guess you would have to think so after watching him score," said Reay. "But I have my doubts. Also John McKenzie has had to take it easy since his operation. Maybe on Sunday I'll platoon McKenzie and Balfour.

Sid Abel, Detroit manager-coach, said he thought referee Art Skov should have blown the whistle and halted play before Pierre Pilote's tie-breaking goal in the third period.

"Skov said the penalty was to have been called on Bill Gadsby," said Abel. "If that's so, then Skov should have blown the whistle because he (Gadsby) had possession before Pilote scored the goal."

Ski Report Promises Big Weekend

VIEWS of SPORT

By Red Smith

The first time Roger Maris went to bat, he was booed just as though this were an ordinary ball game, but it wasn't. You could tell that on arrival in the press box where houris in sarongs and gloriously inadequate halters swayed down the aisle serving rare viands and pale yellow daiquiris to authors from Nashville and Newark, Washington and Rochester, and other exotic points.

This was the confrontation, eyeball to eyeball, like Krushchev and Mao, Goldwater and Rockefeller, Macy's and Gimbel's. The Mets were playing the Yankees and it was teacher against pupil, the first summit meeting of those mightily baseball intellects, Charles Dillon Stengel and Lawrence Peter Berra.

Trailed by authors from Nashville and Newark, Washington and Rochester, Mr. Stengel moved across the field, encountered Mr. Berra a little short of the Yankee dugout, and bowed from the waist, removing his cap with a sweeping gesture.

"You see I got a Beatle haircut," the great man said. Authors from Nashville and Newark, Washington and Rochester, scribbled frantically to preserve the words for history alongside "What hath God wrought?" "Lafayette, we are here," and "I'll pay you next week."

'When You Worked for Me'

"I hear you're ketchin' batting practice," Mr. Stengel said. Mr. Berra confirmed the rumor modestly.

"When you worked for me" the master told the pupil, "you said I was killin' you if I wanted you to ketch batting practice."

"But you had me ketchin' double-headers too," Yogi said.

"Yeah, I was killin' you," Casey said. "You don't look so dead to me. You look pretty rich. And before they had highways, you always got sick two days before Orlando."

"I went there every year," Mr. Berra said.

"You did not. Now it's two hours on these highways or quicker if you fly, but when it was five-and-a-half hours St. Pete to Orlando you always got sick. You and about four others. That Mantle, he always had something happen to him, too."

"Whitey's the one," Yogi said. "Seventeen years in the league and Ford hasn't seen Florida yet."

"Tell him he's a coach now and he's gotta make the trips," the master said. "He'll be a good coach for you."

Meeting of Minds

"You can ketch batting practice one-handed," Mr. Stengel said, "and you know which pitchers are throwin' hard."

"That's right," Yogi said.

"And you can tell something about the hitters, your own men. You can find out what some guys can't hit."

Yogi nodded, grinning. "You can see a lot behind that cage, too, but the best place—"

"Is out in centre field," Casey said, and again Mr. Berra nodded agreement. "You can see what they're doin' and they don't know you're watchin' 'em. They say, 'I can't swing natural when he's standin' behind me,' but if you're out there in centre they don't know you're watchin'."

"They think you're just out there talkin' to somebody," Mr. Berra said. "Hey, Rich and Kubek want to say hello."

Yankees who had played for Mr. Stengel had halted their warm-up pitch-catch and edged in, grinning at the sparkling repartee.

"Good to see you, boys," Casey told them. "I hope you all do splendid and I know you will."

A Kiss and a Crisis

The umpires appeared, the players deployed, the thinkers took their seats in the dugouts, the battle was joined.

Ralph Terry shut the Mets out for five innings on four hits. Carl Willey shut the Yankees out for six innings on four hits. Pete Mikkelsen and Hal Reniff each pitched a scoreless inning for the Yankees. In the seventh Larry Bearnarth picked up where Willey left off.

Suddenly Larry Napp, umpiring behind the plate, whirled and leveled an imperious forefinger at the Yankee dugout. Whitey Ford and Jimmy Gleeson, coaches, who had been commenting audibly on Napp's judgment, were through for the day, costing Mr. Berra one-half of his brain trust. The manager protested with spirit. While Yogi and the umpire, jawed, nose to nose, Mr. Stengal stuck his neck up out of the visitors' dugout and blew a kiss.

In the eighth Frank Thomas singled a run home against the Yankees' Tom Metcalf. Bearnarth protected the shutout through the last two innings and the Mets had their fourth victory in four starts against American League teams.

"Every day a crisis," Mr. Stengel said.

Troubles In Store For Rocks

Jack Fulton, New Westminster manager, charged Thursday that Victoria coach Don Ashbee is dealing through the back door in an attempt to lure star Jack Bionda away.

Coach Alex Mackay of Vancouver says he will protest to Tom Gordon, inter-city lacrosse league commissioner, the fact that Shamrocks tampered with Vancouver goaltender Norm Nestman earlier this week. Nestman is currently in Victoria working out with the Shamrocks.

Fulton said New Westminster expects Bionda to be back this season after he finishes playing for Portland of the Western Hockey League.

Both Victoria and Nanaimo have asked for and received permission to negotiate with Jack Barclay, Fulton said.

"That is the proper procedure and must be followed," he said. "Victoria hasn't heard the last of the Bionda incident."

Attorney Tells Senate Committee

Clay Agreed to Subterfuge for Title Bout

By W. B. RAGSDALE Jr.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cassius Clay agreed on "subterfuge," in setting up a rematch with Sonny Liston and posted half his purse from their heavyweight title fight as a guarantee, Senate investigators were told Tuesday.

"We didn't like it, we don't like it, but we had to swallow it . . . because Clay wanted to fight for the title," said Gordon B. Davidson, attorney for the Louisville, Ky., group sponsoring Clay.

APPROVES "CZAR"

Testifying before the Senate anti-trust and monopoly subcommittee, Davidson strongly endorsed a proposal the subcommittee is considering for setting up a federal boxing czar. He said there now is no ruling body to force a champion to meet the top - ranked contender.

"If you have a boxer, there is no place you can appeal," Davidson said. "You have to deal with the heavyweight champion."

The subcommittee is studying circumstances surrounding the Feb. 25 fight when Clay won the title as Liston failed to answer the bell for the seventh round. It wound up three days of hearings and will resume Monday.

When negotiations began for the Liston-Clay fight, Davidson said, Liston's advisers said they were willing to negotiate on money and other terms, but the rematch with 50 per cent of the purse going into escrow were not negotiable.

As written, the rematch clause does not specifically call for a second Liston-Clay fight. It provides that Inter-Continental Promotions, Incorporated, a firm organized to promote Liston's fights and in which he is a stockholder, has the right to promote Clay's first fight as champion and to select his opponent.

For this, Clay received a $50,000 fee, according to the contract.

This rematch agreement was in a second contract, kept secret and not part of the main fight contract, the attorney said.

The World Boxing Association has a ban on rematch clauses.

Davidson said the Liston-Clay contract was phrased as it was because "we felt we would be better advised not to have a guaranteed rematch clause. We felt this was more in the spirit of the WBA rules than a direct rematch which was clearly outlawed."

Davidson agreed that this was a "subterfuge" to do indirectly something that couldn't legally be done directly. He said the $50,000 in the rematch contract was actually an advance for expenses.

California now has won the cup 12 times against 13 for UBC in the annual rugger series between the two universities.

The two universities tied the first game of this year's series, 6-6, and California won the second, 21-8. A fourth game will be held here Saturday but UBC has no chance of winning the cup.

Fight-Off Spurned By Jones

NEW YORK (AP) — Doug Jones, No. 1-ranked heavyweight contender, has refused to be part of a four-man elimination tournament proposed by the New York State Athletic Commission to decide a challenger for champion Cassius Clay.

"I've already earned the right to fight Clay," Jones said.

Floyd Patterson, Eddie Machen, Cleveland Williams and Ernie Terrell have all agreed to take part in what the commission said was a move to stimulate boxing interest.

Drysdale in Form Yank Pitching Good

Los Angeles Dodgers got steady pitching from Don Drysdale and some hitting from Ron Fairly yesterday to resume their winning ways with a 6-2 win over Detroit Tigers.

Drysdale pitched six innings, giving up two runs in the sixth while Fairly had a home run and two other safeties.

New York Yankees, with Mickey Mantle still not testing his gimpy legs in competition, found base hits still hard to get but also continued to get good pitching as they defeated New York Mets, 2-1.

Bob Meyer, a rookie southpaw with a blazing fast one, pitched six fine innings for the Yankees while Hector Lopez drove in the two runs the Yankees needed to win.

Washington Senators, showing more muscle than anyone imagined they have, made it four in a row with a 9-3 rout of Pittsburgh Pirates.

Giants May Return

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—Are San Francisco Giants again going to make it to the top after another big trade?

They've done it before and after skidding from the National League championship to third place last season, the Giants set out to restore their pitching staff. This they seemed to accomplish but much depends on two talented rookies. If Jim Hart can play regularly at third base and Jesus Alou in the outfield, the Giants could come all the way back.

THREE FOR THREE

The Giants made their big deal last December, sending catcher Ed Bailey, southpaw Billy Hoeft and Felipe Alou, an established outfield ace, to Milwaukee Braves. In return, the Giants got veteran-catcher Del Crandall, experienced right-hander Bob Shaw and Bob Hendley, a southpaw with possibilities.

"It's the deepest I've seen in my four years with the club," is the way Alvin Dark now describes his pitching staff.

LOOKS FAIR

Hendley figures to be a starter with the likes of Juan Marichal (25-8), Jack Sanford (16-13) and Billy O'Dell (14-10). Shaw, who can start or relieve, will probably head the bullpen crew along with veteran Don Larsen.

Righthander Bob Bolin, who appears as if he is about to become a major leaguer, has a job cinched. The Giants will pick the rest of their staff from Jim Duffalo, Gaylord Perry, Frank Linzy, Ron Herbel, Ken MacKenzie, Bob Garibaldi and Billy Pierce, who has been looking pretty good in his comeback try.

NO TROUBLES HERE

Crandall will share catching duties with the southpaw-swinging Tom Haller, Orlando Cepeda will be at first base and Willie McCovey and Willie Mays have two outfield posts sewed up.

There is good talent at the other positions, too, but who will play where depends on the performances of Hart and Jesus Alou, brother of Felipe and Matty.

HOPES RAISED

So far, the Giants are extremely hopeful. Hart, a powerful righthanded hitter sometimes compared to Mays, and the 21-year-old Alou, who has a powerful arm and exceptional speed, have both looked excellent in pre-season play.

If Hart holds third base, the fancy-fielding Jim Davenport will be at second base, where he is expected to shore up a position which has bothered the club in recent years. If Hart is not ready, Davenport will move back to the hot corner and Chuck Hiller will resume at second base. Or, possibly, Harvey Kuenn may play at least some third base.

QUESTION HERE

Jesse Pagan, who was plagued last season by a sore arm and weight problems, vows he will come back. If he does, the Giants are set at shortstop.

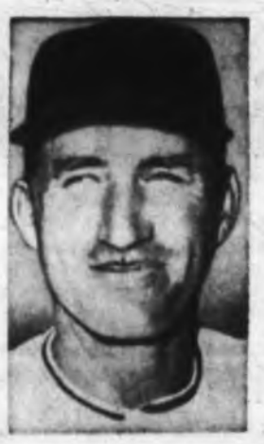

As infield reserves, the Giants can pick from Hiller and rookies Cap Peterson and Gil Garrido as well as Kuenn, mostly an infielder.

Backing up McCovey, Mays and Jesus Alou in the outfield are Kuenn, Matty Alou and rookie Jose Cardenal.

HOLD ANSWER

The Giants will be contenders again. Just how close they will be will depend on how their pitching holds up and the success of at least one of their two main rookie hopes.

That's the way Dark sees it. "If Jesus Alou and Hart play we have a chance," he said. If they don't it will be up to Shaw and Hendley, who won't have Felipe Alou's bat, to make up the 11 games which separated the Giants from the Dodgers at the end of last season.

Lonesome, Reviled But So Important

Playoff Pressure? Just Ask the Referees

By DAVE BETTS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

It's the waiting that bothers the man in the black and white striped shirt.

As senior referee in the National Hockey League, 39-year-old Frank Udvari of Kitchener, Ont., will have a lot of tension-filled hours of waiting during the next few weeks.

He'll travel alone between the cities of the four teams involved in the Stanley Cup playoffs. He'll sit alone in his hotel room. He'll be alone as he eats his pre-game steak.

Then to the boos and jeers of thousands of partisan spectators he'll skate onto the ice with two linesmen, with thousands of dollars and the happiness of millions of hockey fans depending on the split-second decisions he must make during the next three hours.

"I have no different approach to playoff hockey," Udvari says, "but I can't deny that I'm keyed up more. Consciously or unconsciously there's no doubt that you exert extra effort. The players go harder and you have to skate more to keep up on the play."

'I HAVE BUTTERFLIES'

The man who must appear immaculately fair while millions of others are being blatantly one - sided admits: "I have butterflies before a game and I can't sleep too well."

The worst part is the waiting.

"As I sit on the train and think about the game I become conscious of the importance of it to so many people. People often ask me: 'Why worry?' I think no matter how hard a referee tries to forget about the importance of the playoffs, it's bound to affect him."

Udvari came into hockey's top professional league when he was only 25. After a month of seasoning in the American Hockey League he was called up because of illness of one of the veterans in the fall of 1951.

Since then the man with the reputation for glass - climbing and signal - shouting has survived all the pressures of brawls, stringent league regulations, abuse from the fans, newspaper criticism and his own nervousness to become the sport's top official.

TOO OFFICIOUS

"It's a marvel I kept my job. I was always in trouble. It was strictly my own fault. I irritated players by giving them penalties sort of triumphantly. I sensed hostility the minute I stepped on the ice. I worried all the time—had two x-rays for ulcers."

Then he taught himself to calm down, after Montreal fans became so irate one night six detectives had to smuggle Udvari out a back door of the Forum.

He says he never goes into a game looking for trouble, but when he knows he must officiate a game between two clubs who are spoiling for a fight, he becomes more tense.

Udvari says no player has deliberately maimed him, although he once had a close call with Howie Young, former "bad man" with Detroit Red Wings.

"Howie came after me and I know he intended to let me have it. Fortunately, Marcel Pronovost grabbed him."

CUT, BRUISED

In the ordinary course of business Udvari has been cut, bruised, tripped, crushed in the corners, draped on the glass and slashed in the face. Once Lou Fontinato, former Montreal defenceman, accidentally sliced a six-stitch gash in his face.

Udvari has had his share of the tough ones. He holds the record for handing out the most penalties in a game—36 worth 204 minutes to Toronto Maple Leafs and Canadiens in Montreal in 1955. He was also the referee for the Chicago Black-Hawks-Toronto brawl last Dec. 7, worst in the history of the NHL.

"You have to work out of your own predicaments. There's a strict league rule that the referee must stand back and observe any altercation while the linesmen to let them go to the linesmen try to separate the players. Sometimes I tell it, so maybe they'll think twice the next time. Some players only pretend they're going to fight, hoping someone will hold them back."

During the playoffs, the league dictates that Udvari and his fellow referees must be lonely, never seen in the company of players, officials or anyone connected with hockey.

For Udvari, every April means a few hours of intense pressure and "a lifetime of waiting."

Hundreds at Opening Of New Sidney Centre

A flare of color was added to the ceremony by the 40-member North Saanich Secondary School band, RCMP in dress uniforms and nurses in their uniforms.

Al Cormack, chairman of the Sidney village commission, said the long-awaited opening ceremony was "a success from start to finish."

The building, on Sidney Avenue between Third and Fourth Streets, will be occupied by April 1.

Easter Travel Crippled By Blizzards in East

TORONTO (CP)—A blizzard which left nine inches of snow on the Sault Ste. Marie area Wednesday night moved across Ontario Thursday, carrying snowflurries to most of southern Ontario.

Most areas of southern Ontario had at least heavy rain or sleet overnight as a result of a series of storms.

SCHOOLS CLOSED

Schools throughout the Sault area closed a day early for the Easter vacation because of snow-clogged roads.

Farther east, snow driven by 30-mile-an-hour winds belted the greater Montreal area Thursday, catching many unawares.

TRAFFIC HIT

More than three inches had fallen by noon, crippling air and highway traffic and bringing moans from thousands of people with Easter holiday plans.

As much as five inches of snow was expected before the storm moves into the Maritimes late tonight.

Yum Yum Tree Casting Sunday

The Victoria Theatre Guild will hold casting trials Sunday for the American comedy Under the Yum Yum Tree, in the Langham Court Theatre at 7:30 p.m.

Robin Austin, an attractive college girl, about 20, described as "headstrong, bright and animated."

Dave Manning, ruggedly handsome, in his late 20s, "a man who has made up his mind about life and knows what he wants."

Ex-SS Sgt. Says:

Torture Good for Delinquents

FRANKFURT (AP) — One of the main defendants at Germany's largest war crimes trials declared Thursday a torture apparatus he developed at Auschwitz concentration camp should be used on teen-agers.

"I am of the definite opinion that there would be far less juvenile delinquency today if my swing, together with whipping, were used on teen-agers," former SS Sgt. Wilhalm Boger testified at the trial of 21 former guards and Auschwitz functionaries.

A gasp went up from the 300 or so trial spectators. Shouts of "no, no, no," came from a number of young people.

The defendant developed what a parade of former Auschwitz prisoners have called the camp's most sadistic torture instrument," the "Boger swing."

VICTIMS BEATEN

It consisted of a beam of wood hung from the ceiling of the interrogation centre. Naked male prisoners were bound around the beam, their hands tied to their feet, and beaten with such force on the genitals that the victims swung back and forth.

"That's a lot of bunk what these witnesses have been saying about my interrogations," Boger testified in reference to trial statements by former prisoners that his victims usually died two hours after he worked them over.

Scout Chief

First official duty of former Victorian Charles W. Nash as the provincial commissioner for Boy Scouts will be to carry out the Queen's Scout ceremony in Victoria at Government House Thursday. Mr. Nash was recently appointed provincial commissioner by Governor-General Vanier.

U.S. Plans Three Shots Into Space

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — The U.S. plans a space triple-header April 6 to 8 with three shots that have a role in their drive to the moon, it was learned yesterday.

The launches, to follow four straight space setbacks here, include the first flight in the U.S. second man-in-space venture. Here is the schedule as it stands today:

- April 6: The first project fire shot that will drive a spacecraft into the earth's atmosphere at speeds up to 25,000 miles per hour to study the heat that returning moonships will encounter;
- April 7: An unmanned orbital shot in the Gemini manned space flight program;
- April 8: The third orbital firing of the experimental Centaur space rocket that is to hurl a surveyor "softlanding" moon exploration craft to the moon next year.

Indian Claim 'Unjustified'

OTTAWA (CP) — Associate Defence Minister Cardin said yesterday there is no justification for the claim of the Kitsilano Indian band to lands transferred to Crown Assets Disposal Corporation by the RCAF.

He was replying to Harold Winch (NDP—Vancouver East) who asked about a letter from the band chief protesting plans to dispose of the lands and claiming the Indians were defrauded of them during the Second World War.

Bay of Chaleur Apparition Seen Twice

Flaming 'Ghost Ship' Sails Again

STONEHAVEN, N.B. (CP) — The Bay of Chaleur's famed "ghost ship" — the flaming phenomenon witnessed occasionally from the New Brunswick coast in the last century — has been reported seen again on two evenings this week.

The strange spectacle was last reported seen in 1958 when a number of residents of nearby Salmon Beach said they watched the fiery apparition for more than an hour.

Frank Hornibrook of Stonehaven said he saw the brilliant spectacle at sea last Sunday as he drove from his home toward Bathurst about 7 p.m. It faded away after about five minutes.

The next evening he was visiting neighbors, Mr. and Mr. William Smith, and described the sight to them. At that moment Mrs. Smith glanced out the window and saw what appeared to be a burning ship in the bay. All three went outdoors to view the "ghost ship" clearly for about 15 minutes.

They said the phenomenon looking to be as big as a large vessel was several miles northwest of Stonehaven. They could distinguish no details of the "ship" — it appeared to be simply a ball of fire.

For decades the superstitious have claimed the fireship variously to be the reincarnation of a flaming square-rigged warship of olden days, a lost Quebec-bound immigrant ship, and an ill-fated pleasure craft from the U.S.

22 Ship Unions Reject Offer

Labor Men Jubilant

Jubilant labor leaders yesterday saw the rank-and-file of 22 unions line up behind them and firmly reject the latest management offer for settlement of B.C.'s shipyard strike, now in its seventh week.

Company spokesmen expressed disappointment, and say the next step is up to the unions.

Union leaders say they have already made counter-proposals and plan no immediate offers.

The offer by management negotiators representing Yarrows and Victoria Machinery Depot here and Burrard Dry Dock in Vancouver was wage increases on a four-year contract with fringe benefits claimed to be the equivalent of 44 cents an hour.

The most recent union demand was a 15-cent increase yearly for two, three or four years.

In Victoria, 1,006 workers voted 886 against accepting the offer for a percentage of 88. Vancouver voted 94.4 per cent to reject the plan, with 28 accepting and 473 opposed.

VOTE OF CONFIDENCE

James McConachy, a union spokesman, said the unions were "very happy" with the results of the vote. "This is certainly a strong vote of confidence in the negotiators."

"We do not plan to approach the companies right away," he said.

Yarrows general manager John Wallace said his company was disappointed at the reaction to the offer "which we feel was reasonable in view of the state of the industry."

"We hope," said Mr. Wallace, "the unions will come back to us next week so we can all make a concerted effort to get back to work."

VMD president Harold Husband agreed.

Manslaughter Trial

Youthful Accused Denies Touching Boy Who Died

Accused To Take Stand

SEATTLE (AP)—John Wasylenchuk, 51-year-old Burnaby, B.C., man charged with murder and robbery in a bank holdup here 10 years ago, probably will take the stand in his own defence, his lawyer said Thursday.

Erle Horswill, appointed by the court to defend the Canadian, told U.S. District Judge William Lindberg it was his present intention to put Wasylenchuk on the stand.

Earlier, Horswill hammered at the memories of a number of witnesses for the state.

Three women each identified Wasylenchuk as one of the three men who took part in the robbery of the Greenwood branch of the Seattle First National Bank March 12, 1954.

Mrs. Winnifred Rouleau, 32, a former bank employee, stepped off the witness stand to get a better look when she was asked whether she could see scar tissue on the left side of Wasylenchuk's face.

She and Wasylenchuk stared at each other in the hushed courtroom, and then she said: "On the lower part, but it's not what I saw that day."

"After 10 years, it is hard to be accurate, is it not?" Horswill asked.

"Yes, but the incident which happened was hard to forget, too," Mrs. Rouleau said.

NANAIMO—Dennis Roy Cline testified in his own defence Thursday that he "didn't touch" 14-year-old Hugh George Nesbitt, who was found dead at Maple Bay last Aug. 8.

Earlier a Victoria neurosurgeon, Dr. F. A. Hamdi, told the Assize Court jury that a head injury suffered by the Nesbitt boy was not the primary cause of death.

CAUSE OF DEATH

Dr. Hamdi agreed with pathologist Dr. Florence Wilson that asphyxiation was the cause of death but disagreed with Dr. Wilson's testimony that the injuries found on the body could have been caused by a single forceful application or pressure.

Dennis Cline took the stand Thursday to give his account of the events leading to the death of young Nesbitt. He said he, along with one other boy and two girls, all of Duncan, were driving along Maple Bay Road towards Duncan when they saw two boys walking along the side of the road.

Cline stated the boys made obscene motions with their thumbs so he and David Bossons, the driver of the car, stopped about 50 yards from the boys and started chasing them "to give them a scare."

He said Nesbitt hesitated for a moment then started running along the side of the road.

Cline told the court he ran after him and was about five feet behind him when Nesbitt apparently tripped. Cline said he fell on top of Nesbitt and had the wind knocked out of him. When he regained his wind he stood up but Nesbitt remained lying on the ground.

OTHERS ARRIVED

Seconds later Cline said, Sharon Hagen, one of the passengers in the car, and Bossons arrived. He said that David Bossons stood over the prostrate Nesbitt boy and told the others, "He probably just had the wind knocked out of him."

Cline said the three of them tried to help Nesbitt get up off the ground but he mumbled "Go away . . . take off." He told the court that they left Nesbitt, half lying, half crouched on the ground, went back to the car and drove off to go swimming at a nearby lake.

Under cross-examination by David Willans, prosecutor, Cline admitted drinking some beer earlier. He said, "Neither of us were eager to get at them. We just wanted to get them scared."

He said they chased the two boys because the gesture of the thumbs was "annoying."

Cline said "I never touched that boy."

Loan Tender Lowest of 10

City council yesterday decided to accept the lowest of 10 syndicate bids for the right to lend Victoria $800,000.

The syndicate headed by the Winnipeg financial house of Burns Bros. and Denton Ltd. offered to handle the 20-year serial debentures at 94.468 per $100 bond yielding 5.68 per cent interest.

Davidson Heads Welfare

The vacancy occurred when Mr. Hooson recently was made administrative assistant to city manager Dennis Young.

Mr. Davidson has a Bachelor of Social Work degree from the University of B.C. and has been assistant head of the city's welfare department since 1952.

WYATT NAMED

Council also appointed former city manager C. C. Wyatt, who retired from city hall last year, to serve for a two-year term on the Victoria Public Library Board.

Re-appointed to the same board were: Ald. Lily Wilson, for a one-year term; W. F. Pinfold and Mrs. R. J. McKee, each for two-year terms starting Feb. 1.

Council "noted with regret" W. C. Angus had been forced to retire from the board because he no longer held the necessary property qualifications. He served four years on the board, during 1963 as its chairman.

Damming of Peace Called Illegal

OTTAWA (CP) — British Columbia apparently is breaking a federal law with its Peace River dam project and the federal government is making no move to call a showdown.

Gerald Baldwin (PC—Peace River) raised the issue again in the House of Commons Thursday and asked whether the government acquiesced in a "continuous breach of a federal statute?"

B.C. has never bothered to ask the federal government for permission for the Peace River dam, as required under this section of the Navigable Water Protection Act:

"No work shall be built or placed in, upon, over, under, through or across any navigable water unless the site and the plans thereof have been approved by the minister of public works and the work is built, placed and maintained in accordance with the plans and regulations."

Works Minister Deschatelets confirmed again Thursday that B.C. has never made any application for construction permission and that the federal response to this breach remains under consideration.

Navigation Impossible At Dam Site

Attorney-General Bonner said Thursday the Peace River at the Portage Mountain dam site "isn't and never has been navigable."

Mr. Bonner said that is why the provincial government hasn't bothered to seek federal approval for the giant Peace River power project under terms of the Navigable Water Protection Act.

The attorney-general said the dam is being built at the site of rapids that have always prevented navigation.

Last Supper Rite

Pontiff Washes Kisses Feet Of 13 Students

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—In an ages old Holy Week ceremony, Pope Paul VI yesterday washed and kissed the feet of 13 seminary students to commemorate Christ's last supper with the apostles.

The pontiff took the occasion — Maundy Thursday — to urge unity of faith among "all those who believe in God."

EASTER MESSAGE

The Vatican announced the Pope will deliver his first Easter message to the world at 12:30 p.m. (3:30 a.m. Victoria time) on Sunday. Vatican sources said the broadcast message will deal with world peace.

The centuries-old La Lavanda (the washing) took place before the altar in the Basilica of St. John Lateran, the official church of popes. More than 5,000 faithful, including cardinals and members of the Vatican diplomatic corps, watched as the 67-year-old pontiff dropped to his knees in front of the 13 seated seminarians.

WASHES, KISSES FEET

With a basin and a white towel, the Pope washed their feet, dried them and then kissed them. Later, he presented each student with a medal of his pontificate.

LAST SUPPER

It symbolizes Christ's gesture at the Last Supper when he washed the feet of his apostles, saying to them: "For I have given you an example, that as I have done to you, so you should also do."

When Pope Gregory carried out the foot washing, he noticed there were 13 persons taking part when only 12 men were supposed to have been on hand to represent the disciples. He at first thought there was an intruder, but then decided that the 13th man was an angel as a good sign.

More Vandalism

Police Find 23 Stolen Signs

More vandalism was discovered by Saanich police yesterday, this time in the form of 23 road signs found stashed in woods in Beaver Lake Park.

The signs, of varying descriptions, were found beside the riding trail near the creek, and are believed to have been stolen from throughout the Greater Victoria area over a period of weeks.

Saanich police are still investigating vandalism in which homes in the Douglas and Colquitz areas were heavily damaged Wednesday night.

One of the homes was vacant, but occupants of the other four had gone out for the evening.

Besides smashing and stealing goods, the vandals generally messed up and ransacked the houses.

There has as yet been no estimate of the loss.

It's Welcome Wagon

Police Ambulance Has Double Purpose

By BOB PETHICK

When is a paddy wagon not a paddy wagon?

In Victoria the answer is simple. When it's an ambulance. Through this ambulance service the police department has gained a good many friends.

* * *

The black and white panel trucks which are used for a multitude of purposes including everything from transporting accident victims and pregnant women to hospital to carting drunks and malcontents to the city lock-up, are a familiar sight to Victorians.

Sometimes it is a welcome sight, sometimes unwelcome—it all depends what side of the law you are on.

One of the reasons this novel ambulance-patrol wagon combination is possible is the type of men who are picked to operate it on a 24-hour basis.

They have to be able to take care of themselves when there is trouble—and there is little trouble in Victoria they are not called in on—but they must be able to turn off the muscles and tune up the charm to soothe a frightened child or comfort an accident victim on the way to hospital. They must also be good drivers.

* * *

In providing the emergency service the department offers a favorable impression of police to people who would normally have no dealings with the police department.

As an example, an elderly woman who was out for a walk on the beach near Clover Point some time ago fell and broke her hip. It was twilight, and she lay there for some time before she was discovered and someone called the police ambulance.

She was lifted gently onto the stretcher and carried skillfully up a steep ascent into the waiting wagon. On the way to the hospital she told the policeman she didn't know the department operated an ambulance. She was impressed in spite of the spartan appearance of the interior.

* * *

"Thank you. Thank you very much," she said to her rescuers as she was wheeled into the emergency ward. Another friend for the police department.

Many a father (especially a first-time father) has all but tripped over himself in his efforts to thank the men who man the wagon for getting his child-bearing spouse to the hospital on time.

* * *

And there was the case of the little boy who was hurried to hospital after scalding himself by pulling a kettle of water from the stove. He was so impressed by the big policeman who brought him to the emergency ward he forgot to cry when he was being treated.

At every police commission meeting letters of thanks are read for the kindness and help extended by the police.

Under way at present is a survey to determine what sort of ambulance service would be best for Victoria. The argument that a properly equipped, full-time ambulance would be more comfortable cannot be denied. In the present wagon it is sometimes tough on a patient with only a canvas stretcher and blankets to lie on.

A private firm has already offered to take over the emergency ambulance for the city.

* * *

It seems certain that if a new type of ambulance service is introduced in Victoria—and this would appear inevitable—then the department has lost an opportunity to keep its goodwill ambassadors in the public eye.

Park Shows Easter Color

Beacon Hill Park will look its best for Easter this year as holiday weekend coincides with peak blooming period for thousands of daffodils, pansies, polyanthus and primrose. Daffodils like these are in great abundance along Dallas Road and in Mayor's Grove.—(Bud Kinsman)

Rallies, Services

Faithful Await Easter Morn

By BOB PETHICK

Thousands of worshippers are expected to attend colorful sunrise services being held to celebrate Easter Sunday in the Greater Victoria area.

Churches decked with Easter lilies, chrysanthemums and gay greenery will welcome congregations at regular Easter Sunday services.

Today, the solemn event of the death of Jesus Christ will be observed in undecorated quiet churches.

In Christ Church Cathedral today the event of Christ's death will be observed by a three-hour service from noon to 3 p.m., presided over by Dean Julian Bartlett of Grace Cathedral in San Francisco. The three hours represent the time Christ hung on the cross.

A great youth rally is to be held at Alliance Church with hundreds of teenagers and young adults from the mainland attending.

United Churches will mark the day with a worship service and movie on the life of Christ entitled Day of Triumph. The show and service will be held in the Royal Theatre at 10 a.m.

Service for All Faiths

This afternoon an interdenominational service will be held at Metropolitan United Church with hundreds expected to attend.

At St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Cathedral, Bishop of the Victoria Diocese Remi de Roo will preside over a special mass at 3 p.m. and at 7:30 p.m. there will be Way of The Cross services.

The Pacific Cross will be carried by members of the clergy and laymen into St. Andrew's Cathedral for the 3 p.m. mass.

Change of pace in Victoria's churches begins Saturday as church officials begin decorating with Easter lilies and flowers and greenery in preparation for the day of Christ's resurrection on Easter Sunday. (See other church stories, Page 16.)

Sunday will begin with sunrise services throughout the area.

An Interdenominational service at the Douglas and Michigan Street entrance to Beacon Hill Park, sponsored by the Victoria Camp of Gideons will be held starting at 7:30 p.m. Music will be provided by the Salvation Army Band with William Hasting as bandmaster and Maj. John Morrison as song leader. Rev. J. E. Storey, of the Free Evangelical Church, will give the Easter message.

Dramatic Presentation

A dramatic presentation of the Easter Story will be staged by Victoria CGIT groups at a 7:30 a.m. service at the lookout in Beacon Hill Park. Youth choir of First United Church will lead the singing. The service is sponsored by Victoria CGIT council and will be conducted by the president Marie Gillette.

The Salvation Army and Esquimalt Church will hold a sunrise service at High Rock Cairn off Esquimalt Road near Lampson Street at 7 a.m. Chaplain C. F. Waite of HMCS Naden will be speaker.

A pancake breakfast will be served in the Malahat Chalet following a sunrise ceremony by Langford churches starting on the Malahat at 5:50 a.m., Rev. William Van Druten of Gordon United Church will be leader.

At 6:30 a.m., sunrise services will be presented by the Young People's Union and Young Adults in Mount Douglas followed by breakfast in the Guv'nor's Grill.

. . . And Bunnies Turn Up Early

Festival Parade

Bunny Party Starts Day

The Easter Bunny meets The Thing From Outer Space Saturday.

That's when the children take over Victoria's Spring Flower Festival with an old-fashioned Easter Parade through the streets and wind up with a giant free party in Memorial Arena.

The events are among several scheduled for Saturday as the festival gets into full swing.

FOUR CATEGORIES

Four costume categories have been set out—Easter Bunny, Easter bonnet, flower and period costume and decorated bicycles, wagons and space costumes.

At the arena, Greater Victoria Wolf Cub packs will see which can set up the best outer space display.

TRANSPORTATION

Children wishing to attend the party or participate in the parade will gather at the Mayfair shopping centre at 10:30 a.m. The party-goers will be taken to the arena in cars belonging to members of Victoria's Vintage Car Club and by double-decker London buses.

PARADE ROUTE

Route of the parade will be:

Along Douglas to the Roundabout; along Government to Belleville and past the Hudson's Bay store to the arena.

At the head of the parade will be the biggest Easter Bunny in Victoria.

At the party, prizes will be given for the best costumes in various categories and the usual good things to eat will be available.

AIR AND SEA

Meanwhile, the festival takes to the air and goes to sea, as marine events and a daffodil fly-in dominate the adult scene.

About 30 aircraft from the Northwestern U.S., the Mainland and up-Island are expected to begin landing at Patricia Bay Airport at 8:30 a.m.

The airborne visitors will be greeted by members of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce and served coffee and doughnuts by the Victoria Flying Club.

From 10 a.m. to noon they will be taken on bus tours of farms and scenic sites in Greater Victoria. After lunch, from 1 to 2 p.m., another bus tour is scheduled, this time covering Beaumaris Bulb Farm and Observatory Hill.

In the marine events, two predicted log races will be run. In these events, boat operators attempt to calculate exactly how long it will take them to travel between two points.

Outboard men will leave Oak Bay Marina at 10 a.m. and travel to the Inner Harbor, while a similar race for inboard craft begins at Coal Island about 11 a.m., ending about 12:30 at Brotchie Ledge.

PRECISION DISPLAY

From 3 to 3:30 p.m. the Victoria Outboard Club will put on a precision display in the Inner Harbor, to be followed by a water-skiing display by members of the Victoria Aqua Ski Club.

Vessels will participate in a sail past later, beginning at the B.C. Pilotage floats, and passing the Inner Harbor causeway at approximately 4:10 p.m.

OPEN HOUSE

Still in the Inner Harbor, the professional sailors will hold open house aboard the destroyer-escort HMCS Saskatchewan, docked at the CPR wharf.

Boaters, guests and members of the public will end the marine events at 9 p.m. at the Boatman's Ball in the Empress Hotel.

Keep Umbrella Handy

The weather office said last night that the weather we have been experiencing all week will change only slightly for the weekend.

Today will be cloudy with partial clearing followed by rain overnight and Saturday.

Winds will be westerly 20 decreasing to 15 miles per hour this afternoon.

Science Fair at Bay

Awards on Saturday

Award winners in the South Vancouver Island Science Fair are known to judges but they will not be made public until 10 a.m. Saturday when the show officially opens in the Douglas Room of the Hudson's Bay Company.

The show will be opened by deputy minister of education, Dr. J. F. K. English, who will press a button touching off a non-nuclear blast.

Decision of the 14 judges, from the University of Victoria, the Canadian Services College, Royal Roads, the Pacific Naval Laboratory, the Dominion Observatory, the provincial department of mines and the federal forestry department, was reached Thursday after each of the 50 entries was given careful consideration.

First and second prizes will be awarded in all categories with the winner of the overall prize being awarded a trip to the Canada-wide science fair in Montreal where the ultimate winners, a girl and a boy, will be selected for a trip to the International Science Fair in London, England.

A spokesman for the fair said they were hoping at least 10,000 people would see this year's event. Last year 6,000 saw the fair.

The fair is sponsored by the Greater Victoria Teachers Association (science division); Hudson's Bay Company; Oak Bay Kiwanis Club which will underwrite the trip to Montreal; and The Daily Colonist.

Council In Bloom!

Spring blooms cropped up a couple of times in city council discussions yesterday.

The council chamber was decorated for the meeting with dozens of fresh daffodils, gift of a Saanich grower.

Parks chairman Ald. Millard Mooney boasted that the mature flowering cherries, in full bloom, that were transplanted this week into traffic islands at Humber Green will attract many admirers to the area.

U.S., Soviet Satellites Spotted Over Saanich

One of several U.S. or Russian space vehicles may have been spotted over Saanich last night.

Mrs. Thomas Bligh, 1010 McBriar, reported to the Colonist her family watched "a bright beacon" travelling northwest overhead shortly before 10 p.m. She said it appeared to flicker, and moved in a northwesterly direction over her area.

Personnel at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory said it may have been one of the U.S. Echo satellites, Soviet space vehicles or a military satellite from either country.

Dramatic Presentation

A dramatic presentation of the Easter Story will be staged by Victoria CGIT groups at a 7:30 a.m. service at the lookout in Beacon Hill Park. Youth choir of First United Church will lead the singing. The service is sponsored by Victoria CGIT council and will be conducted by the president Marie Gillette.

Girl Adventure-Bound

Open Road Beckons

By JACK FEY

A 17-year-old girl who yearns for faraway places left Victoria with a packsack on her back last night, hitch-hiking to Yellowknife in the Northwest Territories.

Shapely Lillian Lee Johansen took along a .22 calibre Winchester rifle to protect herself from wolves. She also carried an air pistol to protect herself from the two-legged variety.

She has been hitch-hiking since she was 13 years old and her adventures have kept her in constant trouble with the police. Police have picked her up all across western Canada for running away from home.

But this time Miss Johansen carries a letter signed by her parents, giving their permission for the jaunt to Yellowknife.

* * *

"I enjoy travelling, meeting different people—and I sure see some nice country on my way," Miss Johansen said yesterday while packing for her trip to the far north.

"There's something about the north that attracts me—wanderlust, I guess. I like the bush country."

She has worked out a careful itinerary which should put her in Yellowknife by Sunday and back in Victoria by April 4 or 5 after a swing through Edmonton and Calgary on the return trip.

She has no idea how much her packsack weighs. It contains several changes of clothing, a lot of socks, a cotton blanket, two boxes of .22 shells, a small skillet and flour, salt and baking powder with which she will make bannock (Indian bread).

The girl carries no canteen because she will "use snow, rivers or streams for water. The tap water isn't too good up there, anyway."

Miss Johansen was born in Tonsberg, Norway, the oldest town in Norway. She came to Victoria with her parents in 1957, when she was 11 years of age.

* * *

Two years later, she was receiving severe reprimands from her parents for hitch-hiking up-Island to Duncan and Nanaimo.

The stern warnings from her parents and police that a girl could get into serious trouble by hitch-hiking "usually went in one ear and out the other."

Miss Johansen said she felt she could look after herself and that the thrill of travelling was something she couldn't ignore.

In 1962, when she was 15 and 16 years old, the girl made a series of hitch-hiking trips to Princeton in the Okanagan Valley, Williams Lake, Regina, Sask., Toronto, Ont., and Dawson Creek, B.C.

Wearing a new pair of ski boots and with the words "Yelowknife or Bust" printed on her packsack, the teenage wanderer left on a B.C. government ferry last night for the first leg of her long, 10-day journey.

They started their tour on the Oronsay, sailing home from Australia on the Orcades. They took time out to see the historical sights in England and Scotland, called at Gibraltar, and Naples, Port Said, Aden, and Penang of Malaya were also among the couple's ports of call before arriving at Port of Perth, Australia.

Prior to the dinner, Rear-Admiral Landymore was host at a reception in the wardroom of HMCS Naden.

Here for Holiday

Among visitors who will be coming to spend the holiday weekend in Victoria are Mr. and Mrs. Michael Audain of Vancouver. They will be the house guests of Mr. Audain's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Audain in their home on King George Terrace.

Mrs. Alice Woodrow of London, England, announces the engagement of her daughter, Mavis Woodrow, to Mr. Robert Walsh, son of Mr. Ronald J. Walsh, 1413 Pembroke Street. The wedding will take place at St. John's Church on Saturday, May 9, at 7:30 p.m., with Rev. Canon George Biddle officiating.—(Kandid Kamera)

Four representatives of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire were guests of Cmdr. and Mrs. Mark W. Mayo for tea yesterday afternoon in HMCS Saskatchewan. The destroyer escort is in the Inner Harbor for several days participating in the Victoria Spring Festival. A prairie scene painted by E. Luthi was presented to the ship by the IODE in Saskatchewan and was on view in the officers' mess for the benefit of the Victoria members. A silver tea tray presented to the ship by the city of Saskatoon was also on display. Ship's officers and their wives were also present at the tea. Pictured are two IODE members, formerly of Regina, Mrs. H. W. Marsh and Mrs. C. C. Riach, with Lt.-Cmdr. S. W. Riddell, whose former home was in Saskatoon, and Mrs. Riddell. Miss Christine McNab and Mrs. C. Pears were the other IODE members at the tea.

Couple to Live At Maple Bay

Duncan United Church was decorated with tall baskets filled with white gladiolus on Saturday afternoon for the wedding of Karolyn Grace Whan and Robert Arthur Sherman.

Rev. R. B. Knipe officiated at the ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Walter Whan, 177 1st Street, and the son of Mrs. Sherman, also of Duncan, and the late Mr. A. A. Sherman.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a floor-length gown of white peau d'ange, styled with ribbon embroidery on the bodice and scoop neckline and the skirt falling into a slight train from a back, self-fabric bow. A delicate filigree of organe blossoms held her bouffant veil of nylon tulle and she carried a cascade of white roses and freesia.

Mrs. N. J. Smith of Victoria was matron of honor for her sister and Miss Rosemary Thorpe of Vancouver was bridesmaid.

They wore bell-skirted gowns of gold and turquoise brocade and matching waist-length jackets. Headbands were gold-colored and they carried crescent bouquets of white carnations, centred with white gladiolus and tied with turquoise ribbon.

Mr. A. Robinson of Vancouver was best man and Mr. Gerald Coleman, and Mr. Hector Beauchesne, both of Vancouver showed guests to pews marked with forsythia and freesia.

Mrs. Norman Carter was organist and during the service the hymn was O, Father, All Creating.

* * *

The reception was held at the Maple Bay Yacht Club where plum blossom, forsythia and gladiolus decorated the lounge. White roses topped the wedding cake which was surrounded with ivy and freesia. Mr. T. Kilpatrick proposed the toast to his niece.

Leaving for a motor trip through Washington and Oregon the new Mrs. Sherman travelled in a black and beige tweed coachman style suit with mushroom toned hat and accessories. Her corsage was of watermelon pink carnations. On their return the young couple will make their home at Maple Bay.

Victoria Resident Attends Mother's 103rd Birthday

Mr. Lawrence Bergenham, 325 Chestnut Street, was among friends and relatives at the 103rd birthday celebration of his mother, Mrs. Brita Bergenham. The quiet family party was held at the honored guest's home in Moberly, near Golden, B.C.

Mrs. Bergenham, who was 103 years old on March 11, is believed to be one of the oldest residents in the Columbia Valley and oldest living Scandinavian in Canada. She came to Canada in 1893 from Bodon, Sweden, with four of her children, going directly to Golden where she joined her husband, the late Mr. John P. Bergenham who had come out the year before. The family later moved to Moberly where they homesteaded in the hills.

* * *

Mrs. Bergenham is still living on the old homestead in a two-storey log home built just south of the site where the family's first home was located and destroyed by fire in 1913. She lives with her daughter Caroline and son, John Jr.

Family members report their mother still remembers instances from the time she was 14 months old and can repeat her long, unusual and colorful life almost all the way through. She has only been in the hospital about a half a dozen times during her entire life with the last time just after she turned 100 "and that was only for one day."

* * *

Although she is no longer able to walk around on her own, Mrs. Bergenham is still very much aware of what is going on around her. She can still sit up in bed, enjoys a good appetite, and only sleeps about eight hours a day.

She was in excellent spirits at her birthday party and put the first cut in the special cake. She sat up in bed, ate cake and drank tea along with her guests.

New Auxiliary Raises $1,500

Mrs. Olive Campbell was re-elected president at the first annual meeting of the Victoria Multiple Sclerosis Golden Key held in Eaton's dining room.

Other officers elected were Miss E. S. McGillivray, Mrs. L. McAllister and Mrs. H. Walker, first, second and third vice-presidents; Mrs. James Barr, recording secretary; Mrs. Hilda Price, corresponding secretary; Mrs. T. B. Curran, treasurer.

Mrs. Campbell reported a sum of $1,300 had been raised by the newly formed auxiliary through a bazaar and bridge-tea and turned over to Multiple Sclerosis Society.

The president stressed that membership is open to all women interested in the welfare of handicapped adults in Greater Victoria area and complimented the group on its membership growth.

Plans were made for the spring bridge-tea, to be held at the Greater Victoria Art Gallery from 2 to 8 p.m. on Monday, April 27.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 15-year-old girl who needs your help. A family moved to this neighborhood about three weeks ago. They have a daughter my age. I will call her Brenda.

My mother says Brenda looks like a tramp. I agree that my mother is partway right. Brenda wears a monster hair-do and piles on the make-up. But this is just poor taste and has nothing to do with her morals. Brenda is actually one of the nicest girls I have ever known.

If mother got to know Brenda better she would like her. Don't you think it is unfair of my mother to judge my friend from her outward appearance?—DEFENDER.

Dear Defender: They say "You can't judge a book by its cover" and it's true, because some covers are misleading. But a cheap or shoddy cover on a good book is indefensible and stupid.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: My husband pays income taxes hand over fist. He has no interest in anyone except himself, and no interest in anything but making money. I used to have guests over but he humiliated me by yawning in their faces and dozing when they spoke.

One night I invited three couples for dinner. At 10:30 p.m. he announced, "I'm tired. Good night." He turned out the lights and left us sitting in the dark. That was in 1957 and I have not asked anyone over since.

I've always wanted to travel and there is no reason why we shouldn't see the world and enjoy ourselves. We get as far as the brochures. He nods and lets me think he is serious. When it comes to buying the tickets he gives me 10 reasons why he can't leave town.

Is it fair that I should be getting so little out of life just because my husband is a driven, money-mad, stick-in-the-mud?—Mrs. Blah.

Dear Mrs. Blah: No, it isn't, and you are a fool if you let him get away with it.

Plan a trip and buy the tickets yourself. Tell him if he will not go you will invite (as your guest) a woman friend or a relative in his place. (It would be lovely if you chose someone who could not afford a trip). Then do it and send me a post card.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: What do you think of people who call on the telephone and start the conversation with this: "Well, it's about time. I've been trying to get your line for over an hour." Or—"My but you have a busy telephone. This is the fifth time I've tried to reach you and your line has been tied up."

I always get the uncomfortable feeling that I must tell the caller to whom I have been speaking. When I give out the information I become annoyed with myself. After all, it's really nobody's business and I shouldn't have to make any apologies. My irritation is reflected in the tone of voice I use throughout the conversation and this makes me mad too.

Please deal with this problem in the column. I am sure others are plagued, too.

—A. K. W.

Dear A. K. W.: A busy signal can be frustrating and even maddening after a while. But the mature person copes with the frustration and doesn't get ugly with his friends.

Keep this simple answer by the phone and use when needed: "Yes, I certainly am long-winded. I guess I have no terminal facility—Beyond hope, you might say."

ALASKA-BOUND?

For long range family cruising, this 40-ft. diesel bridge-deck cruiser is just right. She cruises 800 miles on a tank-full, and is not scared of a bit of bad weather. This big roomy boat really is a floating home, with hot and cold running water, auxiliary generator and radio phone, and she is fully equipped and ready to go.

GO FAST, GO SAFE

This 21-ft fibreglas Dorsett outboard cruiser has a 100-h.p. Mercury outboard to get you there in a hurry. Her 9.8 h.p. Mercury is perfect for fishing. Boathouse kept and very clean this boat is priced to sell. Come and see her this weekend. You will like her smart, roomy cabin with enclosed head.

If you are buying a boat, come and shop at Van Isle. Many fine craft right here—inboard, outboard and sail. Steven Dickinson and Geoff Simpson will be here to help you, and can arrange terms if required, on the spot. Lots of parking.

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

An experienced declarer generally inspects dummy carefully as soon as it is exposed, even if the play to the first trick does not require long consideration. The defenders should use this time for study also, rather than just sit there waiting for dummy to play a card.

Some players would be nervous, responding one heart to North's one club opening with a hand not clearly worth two bids, but it is the correct choice. To respond in the sturdier spade suit could result in the partnership missing a 4-4 heart fit. North's jump-raise was eminently justified by his values and he was also correct in preferring four hearts to three no trump.

Vul: Both

NORTH (D)
♠ A 10 9
♡ A Q 4 2
♢ A 7

WEST
♠ Q 8 2
♡ 10 7
♣ A K 2

EAST
♠ 7 6 4
♡ K 9 3
♢ J 6 4

SOUTH
♠ K J 5 3
♡ J 8 6 5
♢ K 10 2
♣ 8 5

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♡	Pass
3 ♡	Pass	3 N.T.	Pass
4 ♡	All Pass

Opening lead: Club king

When West opened the club king, declarer paused before playing the automatic small club from dummy, while he looked over the hand. This is what the expert calls "the advance trance," and though it is usually good policy, it operated to South's disadvantage here.

Had declarer quickly played a small card from dummy, East would have done the same, but during the hiatus, East conceived a brilliant plan. He judged correctly that the defence would get two clubs and a trump trick and that any further trick must come by trickery. The most hopeful gleam was a trump promotion, so East dropped the club nine to the first trick. West continued vigorously with the ace and a third club, and at trick four declarer came to his hand with the diamond king to lead trumps. East took dummy's queen with the king to play a fourth club and now declarer must lose another trump trick to the 10-9 combination between East and West.

As the cards lie, declarer could have made the contract by playing ace and another heart instead of finessing, but that could have been a losing play on a different layout.

Beatle Cuts Unsafe

LONDON (AP) — The British Safety Council is urging industrial workers who adopt the Beatles' shaggy hair style to wear hairnets at work.

The council has put up 50,000 posters in factory locker rooms showing a 17-year-old boy who lost his Beatle cut in a machine.

"Long hair at work is a serious double risk," said James Tye, the government-sponsored council's director. "It gets caught in equipment and impairs vision.

"Women wear nets. I don't see why boys with girlish hair should not do the same."

Dog Licences Required On April 1

A new bylaw which prices dog licences at $4 for male and spayed female dogs and $10 for unspayed females, introduced by Central Saanich council, will come into effect April 1.

But a complaint from Coun. Ray Lamont that veterinary fees for spaying cats were too high, went unheeded. Coun. Lamont said people were dumping unwanted litters on streets and in fields rather than pay to have their pets spayed.

"If the vets lowered their fees, most people would be able to afford to have their animals neutered," he said.

Coun. Lamont said last night that until now, Central Saanich has not had any local legislation on dog licensing.

The BIG Inch!

The ruled box above is a one-inch ad. It measures one column wide by one inch deep. It costs advertisers around $3 depending on the contract rate. It looks kind of lonesome by itself. But look at it this way.

What you get when you buy a one-inch ad in Victoria's Daily Newspapers is not just a single inch of space in the paper, but one inch multiplied by 57,515 copies daily.

That's a mighty big chunk of space for a cost of only $3. And that price includes delivery to the reader's front doorstep.

Just imagine the cost of reaching all those families by post card. It would amount to more than $1,140 just for the postage. But Victoria's Daily Newspapers do it for a modest $3 per insertion.

So you can see that a little one-inch ad is really a pretty BIG inch when it's advertising space in Victoria's Daily Newspapers. And the figures show that it's the most effective and economical way possible to let people on Southern Vancouver Island know that you have wares or a service that they could use.

Call EV 2-7211 and let a Victoria Press representative show you how a little BIG inch can wake up sales for you.

Student March Denounced

By JUDITH BAINES

University of Victoria and UBC have announced they will not support the march of 5,000 Quebec students on the Dominion-Provincial conference in Quebec City Tuesday.

The march is in support of Quebec Premier Lesage's demands for wider taxation powers. The students are backing Mr. Lesage on the tax issue to give weight to their demands for increased aid to education, social security and economic expansion.

SUPPORT PRINCIPLE

The Canadian Union of Students has asked all its member universities to back the Quebec stand as support of the principle of provincial governments working out separate agreements with Ottawa on student financial aid.

The Canadian Union of Students in a press bulletin stated: "This cause is one for all Canadian university students, as it is consistent with CUS policy of supporting any provincial demands which are constitutional and which mean an increase in money available to universities and university students."

WEST STAYS OUT

The western universities of Victoria, British Columbia, Manitoba and Saskatchewan, however, have refused to support the action of the Quebec students on the grounds that this would be getting involved in Quebec internal politics.

In a telegram to David Jenkins, CUS president, University of Victoria students' council president Olivia Barr stated:

"We will not support the march of Quebec students on the Dominion-provincial conference in any way, shape or form.

ILL-CONSIDERED

"It is ill-considered, in bad taste, and cannot possibly benefit Canadian students nationally."

In a second telegram she added that although the University of Victoria supports the principle of separate provincial-federal agreements on student aid and the right of Quebec students to demand separate agreements between the federal government and Quebec, it feels that the march is "ill-advised."

STUPID MOVE

She said in an interview yesterday that it would be "foolhardy and stupid to antagonize the group of men who will determine whether or not students get financial aid."

She feels that 5,000 students circling the conference, with the Quebec political situation the way it is, would be "asking for trouble."

Malcolm Scott, president of the Alma Mater Society of UBC, and Roger McAffee, president-elect, sent a similar telegram to the CUS headquarters in Ottawa dissociating the students of that institution with the "pressure tactics" of the Quebec students, of which they said, "No more a destructive course could possibly be taken."

Mrs. Barr, Mr. Scott and Mr. McAffee have sent a letter outlining their stand to Premier Bennett, Attorney-General Robert Bonner, B.C. delegates to the conference, to Education Minister Leslie Peterson, Prime Minister Pearson and Opposition leader Diefenbaker.

Nature House Open

The Nature House at Francis Park, Munn Road, will be open during the Easter holidays. Members of the junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will conduct walks around the trails starting at 2:30 p.m. today and Sunday.

SIMPSONS SALES RISE

Net earnings of Simpsons Ltd. for 1963 were $6,156,270 ($1.79) compared with $5,223,241 ($1.61) in 1962. Dividends of $1,300,000 from the company's 50 per cent interest in Simpsons-Sears are included.

Sales at $186,194,799 were up 10.4 per cent from 1962.

U.K. Poet Henry Reed Reads Own Parodies at University

British poet Henry Reed, known for his parody of T. S. Eliot, Chard Witlow, visited the University of Victoria yesterday.

He began his noon-hour reading with a series of poems called Lessons of the War.

Parodies on army instruction, these poems, the best of which is Naming of Parts, contrast the mechanical unreality of army life with images of spring and nature.

They were written shortly after Mr. Reed was discharged from the army, which he said he didn't like.

A Map of Verona, from which the title of Mr. Reed's book is taken, is a recollection of the physical setting and emotions associated with this Italian city and Naples.

ARTHURIAN LEGEND

Mr. Reed also read a set of poems about four characters in the Arthurian legend, and Tristan and Isolde.

A visiting professor at the University of Washington, Mr. Reed has written several plays for the BBC.

Russia, China End Trade Talk

Bonner Says

Forensic Clinic Studied

A delegation from the B.C. Parent-Teacher Federation said Thursday Attorney-General Bonner has agreed to consider their request for a forensic clinic in B.C. similar to one in operation at Toronto.

The delegation headed by Mrs. Eileen Sharpe, chairman of the federation's child molestation committee, presented Mr. Bonner with a brief calling for extension of both preventive and therapeutic treatment facilities for children with behavior problems.

MANY AT LARGE

The brief said B.C. has "many sexual offenders and potential sex offenders at large who represent an increasing menace to the public."

It said the forensic clinic of the Ontario government is designed to treat sex offenders who are disturbed mentally and emotionally "but not to the degree necessitating custodial restriction."

PROVIDE TREATMENT

"Clinics such as this are able to provide treatment, both voluntary and compulsory, for persons who have a tendency towards disorders of character behavior . . ."

The brief suggested teachers be trained to detect "unnatural tendencies" in children before they pass the point of help.

STUDY PLANNED

Mrs. Sharpe said the attorney-general advised them his department plans to make a close study of the Toronto clinic to determine whether to set up one in B.C.

She said Mr. Bonner was "very helpful."

4-H Clubs Plan Display

The display will start Easter Saturday and will continue next week with the exception of Easter Sunday and Monday.

Meanwhile the South Malahat 4-H advisory council is arranging for 4-H club members an exchange trip this summer to Ellensburg, Wash.

The members from the island will go to the States this year, and will host their American friends here the next.

Garden Notes

A Day to Reflect

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

On this Good Friday, I think perhaps that we should forget about our current garden problems for today and instead, have a quiet chat about some of the plants which have become associated with the Crucifixion.

One of these is the Crown of Thorns, a greenhouse plant usually grown in this country as a houseplant. Its true name is Euphorbia splendens, named in honor of Euphorbus, a noted physician and healer of ancient Greece, and it is a close relative of the Christmas Poinsettia. Crown of Thorns is a prickly creeping plant with purple-brown stems bearing only a few bright green leaves near the tip of each shoot. The flowers are a brilliant crimson, very showy, blooming mostly in the winter. As with the Poinsettia, Crown of Thorns will ooze a milky sap when cut; this juice is poisonous.

While historical research on the plants mentioned in the Bible must necessarily be guesswork, there is considerable evidence to support the belief that Crown of Thorns was actually the plant with which Christ was mocked. If so, it was more than mere mockery; it must have been a fiendish torture, for the stem is covered with sharp and vicious thorns fully an inch long, and because of the poisonous nature of the sap, I imagine each wound would set up an agonizing inflammation.

It is not known of what timber the Cross was made, but one legend says it was one of the Dogwoods, Cornus florida. This large tree was so distressed at the shameful use to which its timber had been put, that Jesus took pity on it and promised that never again should this Dogwood grow large enough to make timber. Since that time, it grows only to the size of a bush. Its white flowers, in memory of its supremely sad experience, are in the form of a cross.

* * *

The Crown Imperial, Fritillaria imperialis, is the most regal of all flowers. Even at the Crucifixion it remained haughtily erect although the little snowdrop, the narcissus, and indeed, all other flowers present bowed their heads in grief. Brazenly, the Crown Imperial stared at the scene until it caught the gentle eyes of the dying Savior. Overcome with sorrow and remorse, its head dropped and tear-drops formed; to this day, you can see those tear-drops at the bottom of each flower.

Another plant with associations for this day is the Judas tree—the tree on which the informer is believed to have hanged himself. This is a reasonable assumption, for Cercis siliquastrum is a native of South Europe and the Near East and is quite common throughout the Holy Land.

In spite of its unsavory association, the Judas tree is a beautiful specimen. It is one of those trees that burst into blossom before it leafs out, covering itself with innumerable pea-like flowers in a lovely rosy-purple shade, followed by heart-shaped leaves of greyish green.

* * *

One plant that lived at the time of the Crucifixion may still be alive to this day—the ancient olive trees in the garden of Gethsemane, scene of the great Betrayal.

Emperor Titus ordered the Gethsemane olive trees cut down when the Romans destroyed Jerusalem in the year 70 A.D., but the olive has a habit of suckering from the roots comparable to that of our poplars, and almost certainly the roots of the cut-down trees would push up new shoots. It is more than likely that the gnarled old olives in Gethsemane today are growing on roots which were alive the day that Christ died.

CHARLES McDOWELL Reports Plugging of Loophole

Now Kids, on Thursday...

Once upon a time four or five of the younger children in Sunnyside Heights enjoyed playing together on Thursday afternoon.

It had to be Thursday afternoon if they were to have enough for cowboys and Indians, a game of kickball or a really good argument.

On Monday afternooon, Harold and Tony went to Junior Midget League baseball practice; Betsy went to Scouts and then to her piano lesson; Matilda went to dancing class, and Jimmy went to Experimental Elementary Conversational French.

On Tuesday afternoon, Jimmy went to his piano lesson; Tony went to Scouts; Harold went to Creative Hobby Club; Betsy went to dancing class, and Matilda went to mother-and-daughter bandage rolling.

* * *

On Wednesday afternoon, Harold went to a special drill for pitchers in the Junior Midget League; Tony took Spot to dog obedience school and hurried home to go with his father to Buddies of the Trail; Jimmy went to Scouts; Matilda went to her violin lesson, and Betsy went to mother-and-daughter abstract impressionism.

On Friday afternoon, Harold and Tony went to Junior Midget League baseball practice; Jimmy and Matilda went to Children's Chorus practice, and Betsy went to the Young Leadership Workshop of Inter-related Activities.

Saturday was remarkably busy, a swirl of carpools all day long—Junior Midget League games, field days, camporees, hikes, exhibits, recitals, Children's Theatre, Children's Ballet, Children's Symphony, pet shows, handicrafts festivals, tennis lessons, adult-child seminars on juvenile development, etc.

Thursday afternoon, then was open. Nobody was sure just how it had happened but it had, and the parents of the neighborhood became increasingly uneasy about all those children milling around on Thursday afternoon.

Everyone was worried except Mr. Frowster, and he was forgiven because it was well understood that he spent all his time tending his property, enlarging his patio and petitioning the local government to change the name of Sunnyside Heights to Sunnyside Estates.

Mrs. Frowster more than compensated for her husband's apathy toward the plight of the children. She was a leading mother. On her Militant Parents' uniform she wore 37 merit badges for broadening and enriching the lives of children, and she also wore the coveted medal of Superior Mistress of Carpools with four oak-leaf clusters.

* * *

Under the leadership of Mrs. Frowster, but with everyone pitching in, the parents of Sunnyside Heights did something about Thursday afternoon.

Seizing upon the children's interest in cowboys and Indians, the parents set up a neighborhood organization called Sons and Daughters of the Old West, and soon so many parents of children in other neighborhoods became interested that the Thursday-afternoon meetings had to be held in a community centre several miles away.

Under the direction of volunteers, called Buffaloes and recruited by Mrs. Frowster, the children studied western folklore, learned to make moccasins and to churn butter, and played games that taught them how the cowboys and Indians related to each other in becoming better citizens.

In no time at all, the children were so well organized that they forgot the Thursday afternoons when they had played aimlessly in the yard with no adult to guide them.

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Heart, Ear, Ego Pains

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — Actress Capucine, not only caught William Holden in Malaya while they co-aighed in The Seventh Dawn, but she contracted some Far Eastern ear trouble. This is one reason she is now in Hollywood and not in Europe near William, to see her doctor. The other reason is to publicize her Pink Panther picture. Cap is determined to make good. Perhaps to prove to Laurence Harvey that he was wrong in his many remarks that as an actress she is a good model—her former profession in France before she was discovered by agent-producer Charlie Feldman.

* * *

* * *

Sarah Miles was hoping to replace Linda Marsh as Ophelia in Richard Burton's Hamlet. She was interviewed by director Sir John Gielgud. But Burton said if they made a change at all he would prefer someone more experienced. Besides, Elizabeth Taylor likes Linda. Nuff said.

* * *

As I predicted here a few weeks ago, the Beatles are now part owners of the important British Lion film company, sold by the government to the Sir Michael Balcon group. The Beatles invested about half a million dollars. They should really make a movie of their lives. Incredible. A year ago, had you heard of them?

* * *

Oscar winner Dmitri Tiomkin has done it again. His score for The Fall of the Roman Empire is Grade A music. He's off to London to score The Circus World for Sam Bronston who I am sure will soon be going back to Madrid to resume production.

* * *

Joe Levine will bring Sophia Loren and Marcello Mastroianni, his stars of Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow, to Hollywood at Oscar time. Also Fellini who directed the five times nominated "8½."

* * *

Nothing like advertising the next picture. At the end of From Russia with Love, you will read "not quite the end—you'll be seeing more of James Bond in his next film adventure, Goldfinger, which is now filming abroad with Sean Connery."

* * *

It will take Lana Turner a little longer to recuperate from the paratyphoid which has taken her out of her current film in Mexico, Love Has Many Faces. While waiting to reaume, Cliff Robertson will return to Hollywood, but I believe that Hugh O'Brian has found a new girl in Mexico which means he will linger longer.

* * *

Remember Leslie Parrish as Daisy Mae in L'il Abner? She was offered the role of the drug addicted prostie who tries to commit suicide in A House Is Not A Home with Shelley Winters and Robert Taylor. Leslie turned it down, remarking, "she wasn't very wholesome, was she?"

* * *

My story of several months ago that Joan Crawford and Bette Davis would be re-teamed in Hush Hush Charlotte, has just been confirmed. At that time it was titled Whatever Happened to Cousin Charlotte, after their first ghoulish romp in Whatever Happened to Baby Jane. And I want to know whatever happened to their pride. It seems that old stars never die, they just make horror films. You can't blame them for doing it for the money although I would have thought they were both loaded from their most profitable careers. Especially Joan. Bette had to fork out some fortunes for one or two of her past husbands, I guess there is always room for another million.

Leslie Caron is hoping she will follow her film with Cary Grant, with the next-but-one Rock Hudson picture, The Favor, which Stanley Shapiro is writing and producing. First Rock has a date with Gina Lollobrigida in Strange Bedfellows.

Madame Jolie Gabor who owns her own beauty emporium in upstate New York, came to California for some sunshine, headed for the Golden Door where women come from all over to lose weight and get healthy. "As a professional," she told them, "I should get professional rates." "No," they said. End of visit.

Curse Follows Wedding Group

COLOMBO (Reuters) — A guest at a Ceylonese wedding reception screamed and fell shivering to the ground.

Within seconds, the 18-year-old bride, the bridegroom and 11 other guests did the same. All 14 picked themselves up as one and ran madly toward a well, which had supplied them with water during the wedding feast.

* * *

This strange scene occurred in the village of Polpitiya, 50 miles from Colombo. The 14 victims still suffer about twice a week from five-minute attacks of "the curse."

Devil dancers, performing from dusk to dawn, have tried to drive away the evil spirits. They charge a high price for their weird, writhing dances, but the 14 are still not cured.

The villagers claim the illness was inflicted at the wedding by a rejected suitor who tossed an evil charm into the well. Western doctors said originally that the 14 persons, including a two-year-old girl, were suffering from food poisoning. Now they are not so sure.

All of the victims suffer a strange burning sensation in their bodies. At first the attacks came about twice a day. Now they occur about twice a week, each lasting five minutes.

* * *

The devil dancers, wearing frightening masks, act as exorcists. They dance through the night to the music of throbbing drums until they drop in exhaustion.

"Curses" are fairly common in remote areas of Ceylon. But the torment of the 14 wedding victims is attracting national attention because of its duration.

Canada's New Military Look

One Force: Highly Flexible, Poised for Action

By BEN WARD

OTTAWA (CP)—A picture of a unified, highly flexible Canadian military force poised for land, sea or air action anywhere on the globe was sketched Thursday in the government's white paper on defence.

* * *

Defence Minister Hellyer presented Parliament with a 13,000-word outline of defence policy for the next 10 years, centred on integration of the army, navy and RCAF into a single service. It would make Canada the first major nation to embark on military unification.

* * *

He told reporters the merger would trim so-called housekeeping costs by an estimated $1,000,000,000 over the 10-year period and eliminate 10,000 administrative jobs by 1968. Savings would be pumped into the purchase of new weapons, including nuclear ones.

* * *

Thus there would be little or no change in annual defence spending, now running around $1,500,000,000. The idea is to get more mileage out of the defence budget.

* * *

The white paper laid heavy emphasis on Canada's role in NORAD, NATO and United Nations peace-keeping operations. Increased mobility of the unified force would make it available for fast deployment for overseas police actions such as the Suez, Congo or Cyprus operations, or to a brush-fire war such as Korea.

* * *

Unification of the three services would start at the top with the appointment of a single defence chief. It would gradually work down the line, probably taking four years as indicated by Mr. Hellyer's target for the 10,000-job reduction.

* * *

The minister said he has selected Air Chief Marshal Frank Miller, 55, now chairman of the chiefs of staff committee, to boss the united force. To balance the one-man military control, civilian powers over the forces are to be beefed up. Deputy Minister E. B. Armstrong will have increased responsibilities for managing the defence establishment.

* * *

Key note to the entire policy outline is laid down in the first section of the white paper. It lists these three objectives:

1. To preserve the peace by supporting collective defence measures to deter military aggression.

* * *

2. To support Canadian foreign policy including that arising out of our participation in international organizations.

* * *

3. To provide for the protection and surveillance of our territory, our air space and our coastal waters.

* * *

New weapons systems would be highly flexible to meet any of these needs. The main one referred to in the paper is "a high performance aircraft . . . for any task we might undertake from ground attack to air surveillance."

* * *

It would be adaptable for both NATO and North American defence and have sufficient range to move quickly overseas from Canadian bases if needed. It also would provide support for ground forces.

Officials said three aircraft are being studied—the American F-X and TFX designs and the British P-1154.

Also under study is the possibility of building two or three nuclear submarines for anti-sub warfare.

* * *

To obtain a high degree of mobility, air transport facilities will be stepped up sharply. Civilian air carriers will be considered for moving forces to areas with first-class airstrips. A fleet of versatile "air trucks" will be developed, able to land on makeshift strips.

* * *

The white paper states firmly that Canada must continue to keep its army brigade on NATO's front line in Europe "in its present role." This apparently eliminated any possibility of removing the brigade's Honest John nuclear rocket battery, a step recommended last December by the Commons defence committee.

* * *

Present policy of maintaining two army brigades in Canada as a NATO reserve will be continued. These will be retrained and re-equipped for higher mobility "to permit their effective deployment in circumstances ranging from service in the European theatre to United Nations peace-keeping operations."

* * *

In addition, NATO has asked Canada to keep an army battalion on immediate call for the supreme commander in Europe. This battalion will be designated from the Canadian-based brigades.

A fourth brigade will be kept as a special service force. It will be smaller than the others but even more mobile, with airportable and air-droppable equipment.

No thought is being given to abandonment of the nuclear ability of Canadian forces. As long as NATO required nuclear weapons and Canada remained part of the alliance, Canadian forces would share the nuclear policy.

* * *

The policy document said integration of the services is the only solution to the present situation in which 87 per cent of the defence budget is eaten up by the costs of maintaining headquarters, administrative and training establishments for each service.

Mr. Hellyer has been saying for months that his target is to put 25 per cent of the budget into weapons procurement. The white paper says integration will achieve this.

* * *

Mr. Hellyer told a press conference that integration might eventually lead to all servicemen wearing the same kind of uniform, but this was well in the future.

New Roles Of Future Spelled Out

OTTAWA (CP)—A major program to re-equip the army as a mobile striking or peace-keeping force and to purchase a new "versatile tactical aircraft" to operate in direct support of ground troops was unveiled today by Defence Minister Hellyer.

A 10-year plan outlined in a defence white paper tabled in the Commons said the army's role will need a "substantial" increase in air transport and perhaps the use of civilian air carriers to move troops.

NAVY ANTI-SUB

The program hinted at a declining role for Canada in North American air defence as the threat of manned bombers diminishes. Three squadrons of home-defence CF-101 jets would be continued as long as the planes last, supplemented later, if required, by units of the planned new combat squadrons.

BOMARCS GOING

The two Bomarc anti-aircraft missile squadrons would be operated "as long as they form an integral and essential part of the NORAD system." But it was hoped that radar bases in Canada could be gradually phased out as the bomber threat lessened.

CHANGE FORECAST

Dealing with Canada's NATO contribution in Europe—a 6,139-man army brigade group and an eight-squadron air division—the white paper announced that the brigade group will not be withdrawn.

A future change in the NATO air division was forecast as the existing CF-104 nuclear bomber-attack squadrons dwindled over the next 10 years because of non-replacement of aircraft.

All eight squadrons were being equipped for an alternative non-nuclear attack role.

Two army brigades in Canada —some 6,000 men earmarked as NATO reserves—"will be re-equipped and retrained as a mobile force as well as for rotational service with the NATO brigade."

FOURTH BRIGADE

"In order to achieve maximum flexibility, these two brigades will be equipped to permit their effective deployment in circumstances ranging from service in the European theatre to United Nations peace-keeping operations."

A fourth brigade in Canada would be gradually converted to a special service force, smaller than the conventional brigades but provided with equipment that can be carried and dropped from the air.

Training of the planned mobile army brigades in Canada would allow them to be used for United Nations peace-keeping duties "in extreme conditions from Arctic to jungle." They would be trained for varied tasks "from firefighting to communications."

SEA-LIFTS

The navy, besides continuing its anti-submarine role, would be given "a modest additional sea-lift" so it could move heavy equipment and supplies for UN operations.

House Committee To Study Paper

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister Hellyer said Thursday he hopes the Commons committee on defence will be re-established soon after the Easter recess to examine the defence white paper.

He was replying to Harold Winch (NDP, Vancouver East), member of the committee last session.

Ottawa's Assessment

World Threat Reviewed

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada must maintain a wide variety of flexible defence forces to contribute to the Western world's war deterrent because of continuing threats through the next decade, says the defence White Paper tabled in the Commons today.

Assessing the international outlook, it said calculated all-out thermonuclear war is so irrational as to be improbable. However, as long as major East-West political problems remain, the West—with the United States taking the lead—must maintain its capacity to deter such a war.

"It is probable that Communist China will grow in power, and unless its national objectives change, it may also grow in menace.

"The production of some nuclear weapons by Communist China during the next decade cannot be discounted, but it is not likely to acquire an effective nuclear arsenal with the means of delivery which could compare with that of the U.S.A. or the U.S.S.R. during this period."

The paper also said that unless there is an international self - denying ordinance, other countries may be tempted to develop independent nuclear capabilities.

Failure Dangerous

"Failure to achieve a solution to this problem, while it is still of manageable proportions, could fundamentally and dangerously alter the world security situation and render invalid many current defence assumptions."

The most likely prospect for the future, barring all-out nuclear war and failing achievement of complete disarmament, was continuation of political tensions marked by limited wars, insurrections, guerrilla activities and political upheavals.

Canada's contribution to the deterrence of war is limited by human and material resources available, but Canada can and must make a "far from negligible" contribution.

"In the belief that adequate force through a wide spectrum is essential to the deterrence of war, it is the policy of the government in determining Canada's force structure for the balance of the decade to build in maximum flexibility. . . ."

There had never been any serious question of Canada becoming a member of the nuclear club in manufacturing its own atomic weapons and having them under its own control.

But Canada, as a responsible member of the nuclear-armed North Atlantic Treaty Organization, has to share a responsibility which NATO "dare not" shirk to have nuclear weapons in its defence structure.

Can't Avoid Share

"Having accepted the responsibility for membership in a nuclear - armed alliance, the question of nuclear weapons for the Canadian armed forces is a subordinate issue. It depends on how we can most effectively contribute to collective strength."

In the defence of Canada, the white paper said the minimum requirements are to maintain surveillance of Canadian territory, airspace and territorial waters; to deal with any military incidents in Canada, off Canadian coasts, and in the air over Canada within the country's limited resources.

The major threat to North America was still from the air and while there might be some downward trend in continental air defence forces it was likely that Canada would always be directly involved in some form of air defence operations.

"Such defence, to be fully effective, involves nuclear weapons. It should be noted that these weapons could be used only in the event of a deep enemy penetration of Canadian air space."

"In order to get the maximum effectiveness for our investment in the anti-submarine force, we are conducting a major study to determine the best combination of weapons systems for this task. We have the active co-operation of our allies in this research."

In international peacekeeping operations, the white paper said establishment of a United Nations standing force is impracticable at this time because of varying needs and reluctance of the great powers.

Shipyards Ready To Build A-Subs

John Wallace of Yarrows and VMD president Harold Husband were commenting on proposals presented in the House of Commons yesterday by Defence Minister Hellyer.

The proposals suggested the possibility of building "two or three" of the vessels for anti-submarine duties on both coasts.

CAN BE DONE

Mr. Wallace said the Canadian shipbuilding industry was asked three years ago whether it was capable of producing nuclear-powered craft. He said the consensus at that time was such ships could be built in Canada, provided technical assistance was provided from outside Canada.

"It is hoped some of this work would be done on the West Coast," Mr. Wallace said. He said with B.C.'s weather conditions and deep-water ports, such work could be handled here.

Mr. Husband said West Coast yards were prepared to build either conventional or nuclear-powered subs.

"I assume from this announcement," Mr. Husband said, "the Royal Canadian Navy will continue its anti-submarine role. If nuclear-powered submarines are to be built, we at least hope they will be built in Canada."

Rocky Hails New Plans

EDMONTON (CP)—The defence department white paper presented to the Commons Thursday holds a great deal of promise for men in the armed forces, Maj.-Gen. J. M. Rockingham said.

Gen. Rockingham said he had not studied the paper in detail but "it looks to me like the most satisfactory paper I've seen. It shows a great deal of promise for an interesting life in the forces, particularly for younger officers. It's first class, although it will take a while to develop."

U.S., Canada Brass End Defence Talks

Eight senior commanders of Western Canada and the U.S. concluded discussions yesterday on the defence of North America at a meeting of the ALCANUS Organization as the guests of Rear-Admiral W. M. Landymore, flag officer Pacific Coast.

Meetings of the ALCANUS (for Alaska-Canada-U.S.) Organization have been held for almost 15 years, Rear-Admiral Landymore said. "In the Pacific it is the counterpart of NATO in the Atlantic but it is restricted to Canadian and U.S. participation."

Planning staffs of the commanders were present at the discussions.

IN ATTENDANCE

Rear-Admiral G. D. Hynes, USCG, 17th Coast Guard District; Maj.-Gen. J. W. Rockingham, Canadian Army Western Command; Air Commodore R. J. Lane, RCAF Air Transport; Vice-Admiral J. T. Hayward, USN, commander-in-chief, Pacific Fleet; Lt.-Gen. R. J. Reeves, USAF, Alaska Command; Rear-Admiral E. E. Yeomans, USN, Western Sea Command; Lt.-Gen. F. J. Brown, USA, 8th U.S. Army and Maj.-Gen. W. E. Arnold, USA, Tactical Air Command.

'Integration Going On Ten Years'

CALGARY (CP) — Integration of Canada's armed forces has been in progress for 10 years and any additional saving would result from combining administrative functions, former defence minister Douglas Harkness said Thursday.

Plans had been in progress for several years for a unified command and integrated supply and administration services.

Mr. Harkness said it would be a mistake, however, to abandon the distinctive uniforms of the three services.

Nuclear submarines would "almost certainly" be acquired by Canada when the price decreased, he said.

Hellyer Denies Oath Violation

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Production Minister Drury was accused in the Commons Thursday of violating his oath of cabinet secrecy and infringing on the rights of Parliament by making a speech Wednesday night on the government's defence white paper.

The charge was made by former Conservative defence minister Gordon Churchill, who said Mr. Drury spoke to a closed meeting of the United Services Institute in Montreal on some aspects of the white paper.

Mr. Drury categorically denied that he had made any disclosure of new policy decisions contained in the white paper. He said he discussed the historical background leading up to the present situation.

Cyprus Green Line

Canadians Take Over

NICOSIA (UPI) — Canadian troops moved into Cyprus' Green Line today expecting and ready for trouble.

Army sources said today "somebody is bound to try and test us."

A top-ranking Canadian officer said Canadians took over from British forces along the line early in the morning and Greek and Turkish Cypriots were expected to try out the new mediators within hours.

'WE'RE READY'

The officers were not worried about the quick tempers of the French-Canadian troops. The men have been training for the role for the last three years and are well versed in both fighting and police work.

"Canada won't be put in a bad light," said one officer. "We told the troops at home and again here what to do in any situation. They'll remember."

The officers have made several tours of the Green Line in the past week and are familiar with it and the positions of Greek and Turkish Cypriots.

"We know who to deal with now on both sides," an officer said.

MOVE QUARTERS

Most of the soldiers are likely to leave the camp site and take over British quarters in the Green Line today. The camp site will remain Canadian for storage equipment and reserve forces.

A handful of Canadian troops engaged in a mock battle outside the camp yesterday, running over rough fields near main highway with rifles in an attack on men who were mock firing at them from behind bushes.

Service Chiefs Agree

Merger 'Good Thing'

By DON GAIN
Colonist Military Reporter

Heads of all three services in Victoria yesterday agreed that amalgamation of the armed forces is a good thing.

Also in accord was Col. Peter Ramsay, commander of 25 Militia Group.

"Many of us have felt for a long time that savings could be made in national defence and the new policy, in the light of fiscal requirements, is inevitable," he said.

★ ★ ★

"I welcome the fact that we now have a clear-cut, long-term policy," said Rear-Admiral W. M. Landymore, Flag Officer Pacific Coast. "I don't expect to find any reluctance anywhere in fulfilling the government directive.

★ ★ ★

"Its main advantage," he said, "is likely to be that a great deal of committe work necessary for close liaison will in fact be reduced so that decision-making will be simplified and be more rapid."

"We haven't had time to study all the facets of the thing," said Air Commodore R. C. Weston, senior air officer Pacific, "but in general it appears to be a sensible move."

The air commodore said he did not think there would be any serious effect as far as tradition goes.

Loss of tradition has been mentioned by veterans as a by-product of unification.

"I don't think it will have any effect on tradition," said Lt.-Col. H. C. F. Elliot, commanding officer of 1st Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles of Canada at Work Point.

"My battalion is very proud of its tradition as the oldest infantry regiment in the Canadian army. Defence Minister Hellyer said today that he does not propose to do anything to change this and I therefore feel that we will not lose it."

★ ★ ★

Sailor Quotes Banks

'JOB DONE ON PUNK'

MONTREAL (CP)—Big Mike Sheehan, a 49-year-old former sailor with a Liverpool Irish accent, testified Thursday Hal Banks had told him "a job had been done in Ontario" and "that there'd be no more trouble with that punk" after Capt. Henry Walsh had been beaten up seven years ago.

Sheehan, a patrolman with the Seafarers' International Union of Canada (Ind.) for 10 years, he said he was in Banks' office in downtown Montreal both before and after the beating in Owen Sound, Ont.

Banks, deposed as SIU president last week, was sitting in his office with Richard Greaves, a marine engineer union official, on one occasion, Sheehan testified, and called Eldon Richardson, 38, a co-accused, there on a loudspeaker.

CALLED TO OFFICE

Sheehan said he heard Banks ask Richardson whether he knew Capt. Walsh and when he replied he did not , the union leader called Paul Carsh, 37, on the loudspeaker to come to his office.

The witness said he then left the office but saw Richardson, Carsh and Jack Caspar, sought on a warrant in the case, leave the union hall together.

BEATEN IN 1957

Banks is on trial on a charge of conspiring with Richardson, Carsh and Caspar to assault Capt. Walsh with intent to wound, maim or disfigure. Capt. Walsh was beaten up in August, 1957, in a darkened hotel parking lot.

Sheehan, who said he was in charge of picketing Canadian National Steamships vessels in Montreal at the time, testified he met Richardson a few days later and was told he "did a job on Walsh." However, Sheehan said Richardson told him Carsh had "chickened out."

Sheehan said Caspar was "sent up from the United States" because of the CNS strike. Later, Sheehan said he was called to Banks' office and told to pick up Caspar's gear. Caspar was in the office, he said, and Banks make out a $1,000 cheque to him and charged it off to the CNS strike.

The trial was adjourned to Tuesday.

B.C. Leads In Problems

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia leads all provinces in mental illness, divorce and venereal disease, Robert Dudley, executive director of the Victoria branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association, said Wednesday.

He said B.C. leads in almost every social disease, and that efforts to combat the problems in B.C. have been less successful than campaigns carried out in the rest of Canada.

South Main Battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Defence Secretary Robert McNamara said Thursday night that direct military action against Communist North Viet Nam could only be supplementary to the main war against Communist guerrillas in South Viet Nam—but he did not rule out the possibility of such attacks. He said it has been given careful study.

The Pentagon chief said, too,

● The "situation in South Viet Nam has unquestionably worsened . . . since last fall" but the new government of Gen. Nguyen Khanh is "vigorously rebuilding the machinery of administration and reshaping plans to carry the war" against the Viet Cong guerrillas in South Viet Nam.

● "The road ahead in Viet Nam is going to be long, difficult and frustrating."

Good Friday

Commons Faces Overtime

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliament will sit Good Friday, then adjourn—probably within minutes—to Monday to try to clean up the government's spending plans for the current fiscal year.

MPs, many of whom had booked Easter holidays trips out of Ottawa late Thursday, suddenly found themselves in the position of meeting at 11 a.m. today.

STRONG FEELINGS

Within minutes of the unplanned adjournment of Thursday's sitting until Good Friday, a spokesman for Prime Minister Pearson said the government will propose an immediate adjournment of the House until 2:30 p.m. Monday. The spokesman said Mr. Pearson holds "very strong feelings" against sitting Good Friday.

He said the plan to sit Monday means the promised Easter recess from Thursday to Monday, April 6, is "out the window to all intents and purposes."

PARLEY SNAG

This snag in planning Parliament's work catches the government in a bind because of the important federal-provincial conference to resume in Quebec City Tuesday. However, if the Commons cleans up its work Monday, this hazard would be removed.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker issued a statement calling for an immediate adjournment of the House Good Friday without transacting any business.

"I will not sit on Good Friday, nor should the government, by its own ineptness and autocratic action, place any

Silver on His Hair And Gun in His Hand

VANCOUVER (CP) — A man wearing pink gloves, his hair shining with silver lacquer, Thursday used a gun and inside knowledge of a vault to steal about $56,000 in unemployment insurance payments from an office of the National Employment Service.

A woman clerk screamed, pressed an alarm button, then fainted when the vault door swung slowly open to disclose the man standing inside with the gun in his right hand and the sack of money in his left.

HID EARLIER

Zone manager Stanley Purdy said the pink-glove bandit must have entered the unlocked vault and crawled out of sight atop an air vent some time before an armored car crew delivered the money into the vault and left, locking the door behind them.

"He must have either entered the vault or seen into it at some time to know its layout and where to hide," Mr. Purdy said.

How long the bandit lay hidden was not known. Police said he could have been there all night or could have entered the offices with early - arriving workers.

The $56,000 in small bills represented twice the normal amount that would have been on hand. It was for two days' payments, covering the Good Friday holiday.

After the robbery, a second shipment of money was dispatched to the NES office for payment to long lines of unemployed queued up outside.

Head cashier Mrs. Joseph Watson said the man "appeared calm and stepped out slowly."

The man ran down a flight of back stairs, waited in the lane until a car drew up, stepped inside and was driven away.

New Military Boss

A Hard-Driving Ex-Bomber Pilot

By ALAN DONNELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—Air Chief Marshal Frank Miller, a hard-driving six-footer, has been tabbed for the job of reorganizing Canada's armed forces under a single military command.

Miller

The 55 - year - old former bomber pilot will be breaking new ground all the way. Informants said they know of no other prominent country with armed forces unified to the degree proposed in the government's white paper on defence unveiled Thursday.

APPROVAL SURE

Air Chief Marshal Miller, now chairman of the chiefs of staff committee, was immediately designated by Defence Minister Hellyer to head the integrated defence command. Cabinet approval of the appointment is considered certain.

The move will do away with the committee system of defence co-ordination, which the white paper said carries with it "inevitable delays and frustration."

B.C. NATIVE

The man for the job is a native of Kamloops, who has had both military and administrative experience in the defence department.

In the RCAF since 1931, he became an air marshal in 1954 when he was only 46 years old. The following year he hung up his uniform and switched to the

The Story of Easter

Christians Know Christ Still Alive

By LOUIS CASSELS
(Last of a Series)

More than 700,000,000 people around the world will celebrate this Easter.

In stately Latin and melodious Polynesian, and in virtually every other known tongue, they will repeat the news that sped through the demoralized company of Christian disciples on the first Easter morning.

Easter is the oldest and most sacred of Christian holy days for very good reason. Unlike the Oriental religions which are based on mystical experiences and metaphysical speculation, Christianity is anchored in history to an event — the resurrection of Jesus Christ.

From its earliest days to the present, the Christian church has never hesitated to stake its whole case on the claim that this event really happened.

"If Christ be not risen," the apostle Paul told the Corinthians, "then is your faith in vain."

What is the evidence for the resurrection?

Many Christians probably would answer that question by citing the Biblical stories about the finding of the empty tomb. These stories dramatize the fact of the resurrection as nothing else can, and their devotional value has earned them

Mrs. Val Rivett-Carnac, read the report for the Thetis Island branch of the Chemainus WA which showed an active and profitable past year. This group has as its main project for 1964, the refurnishing of one of the two maternity wards.

Mrs. J. M. Efford, gave the report for the Crofton WA whose contributions were most gratifying. Their main project for the year will be the refurnishing of the remaining maternity ward, besides purchasing equipment for the hospital this group presents a silver mug to the first Crofton child born at the hospital each New Year and a bouquet to the mother.

George Beaubier, paid tribute to the three auxiliaries in providing equipment and extra comfort for patients, through their efforts he said "the Chemainus Hospital is one of the best equipped in B.C. for its size."

Credit Unions See Need for Research

PORT ALBERNI — The B.C. Credit Union League recognizes the need for research into general economics and economic trends and how they affect credit unions, League president William Moxon said when he was guest speaker at the local C.U.'s 23rd annual meeting.

He gave an outline of the League's achievements since its formation in the early 1940's. At first the group's main concern was in legislation and the present credit union laws in B.C. are mainly based on recommendations of the League, he said.

During the years, the body has helped in the organization of credit unions in various parts of the province; formed the B.C. Central Credit Union; established health service coverage; taken part in an educational program, including the publication of The Credit Unionist, the speaker said.

Mr. Moxon said the league has now established a collection service and is still looking for ways and means of improving this service. It is concerned also with having an adequate inspection service instituted.

The speaker congratulated local Credit Union officers on their reports and members on their active participation in the annual meeting.

"This is your opportunity to say how you want your credit union to be run," he said.

Port Queries Illegal Suites

PORT ALBERNI—The question of the number of illegal basement suites in the city was raised when George Wilson complained of the situation in the 500 block, Twelfth Avenue N.

He said he had brought the matter before the building inspector but had received no action.

Mayor Les Hammer said that a complaint of a basement suite at 508 Twelfth Ave. N. had been investigated that very day when he and another member of the council had gone to the area with building inspector William Fraser. Mr. Fraser had gone to the house and reported that everything was in order.

Mr. Wilson mentioned three other residences in the neighborhood where he declared there were basement suites.

Ald. Jack Perry admitted that he knew of one in the area of his own home. He suggested that it might be necessary to have a survey made as had been done in the past.

NANAIMO—Lack of a quorum has prevented another meeting of Nanaimo's recreation commission. Not enough commissioners showed up at a commission meeting Monday night so the meeting was postponed until April 6.

Two items of major concern facing the commission right now are progress on the swimming pool in Bowen Park and the application of the Mid-Island Racing Association to lease Grandview Bowl at Exhibition Park for the car racing season.

Kinsmen have collected approximately $5,000 of $10,000 needed for the second stage of pool construction. So far, the pool itself is finished and work has begun on a cement walkway which will encircle the pool.

For the first time since Grandview Bowl opened MIRA will attempt to take over the entire operation for the summer by leasing the stadium for the racing season. This application will be made at the next recreation commission meeting April 6.

PORT ALBERNI—A sanitary inspector appointed for this area last fall is catching up on a backlog of work and has completed routine inspections in various fields, according to a report from Ald. William Goddard at Port Alberni council meeting.

As there had been no inspector for most of the year, the man had been exceptionally busy, Ald. Goddard said. He expressed satisfaction with the way he had attended to complaints.

Water samples had been taken regularly and reports had been satisfactory, council was informed.

William Colyn pleaded not guilty to the charge laid March 1, one day after the deadline. Police said Colyn was stopped by RCMP after he was seen driving with 1963 plates, and when the policeman left him to check another vehicle for a similar offence, put the new plates on over the old one, fastening them with two small sticks.

Colyn claimed he was not charged until after the new plates were on. Magistrate W. E. MacLeod said he was satisfied the accused had operated a vehicle with expired plates on a highway, and whether or not the new ones were on when he was ticketed was immaterial.

Rescue Squad Gains Skills, Experience

ALBERNI — Headquarters of Alberni Valley Search and Rescue Squad is beginning to shape up as the result of many hours of volunteer work and some substantial donations.

The 25 men who make up the squad use the building in Stirling Field to hold training classes, to store their equipment and as a place to gather and shoot the breeze.

Map and compass reading, first aid and other skills are part of the training that can be acquired indoors. Every one of the men knows how to handle himself in the woods, and in each case it was an interest in the outdoors that attracted members to the squad.

The search and rescue group operates in co-operation with the RCMP. The men have been called out times without number to search for hunters caught by darkness in the woods. They have effected rescues when mountain climbers have been injured.

LOCATE PLANE

One of their greatest achievements was in finding a small plane which plunged into Sproat Lake a year ago, taking the pilot to his death. Members of the squad continued to drag the lake after the official search had been abandoned and they were instrumental in bringing the plane and the body of the pilot up from 90 feet of water.

EQUIPMENT STORED

A basket stretcher, ropes, axes, cooking utensils and sleeping bags, battery lights, and other equipment are stored in a room which can be locked if the main hall is in use by groups other than the squad.

A compact kitchen is being finished and members hope they will be able to rent the building on occasions to help pay expenses.

Beaver Cove Bus Link To Be Tried

Vancouver Island Coach Lines Ltd. is willing to start a public motor coach service between Campbell River and Beaver Cove as soon as private logging company roads are linked together through the Nimpkish Valley.

Coach Lines general manager Conway Parrott said last night the company will start with three round trips a week, offering connections at Campbell River for other parts of the Island and the mainland.

ABOUT FOUR HOURS

It will take a coach about four hours to make each trip between the two points, over 142 miles of logging roads.

Logging companies invited the coach lines to study the possibility of extending its service to Beaver Cove and Vancouver Island Coach Lines district managers from Nanaimo and Campbell River flew up to look into it about 10 days ago.

Manslaughter Case

'I Didn't Touch' Boy Who Died Youth Testifies

Earlier a Victoria neurosurgeon, Dr. F. A. Hamdi, told the Assize Court jury that a head injury suffered by the Nesbitt boy was not the primary cause of death.

CAUSE OF DEATH

Dr. Hamdi agreed with pathologist Dr. Florence Wilson that asphyxiation was the cause of death but disagreed with Dr. Wilson's testimony that the injuries found on the body could have been caused by a single forceful application or pressure.

Dennis Cline took the stand Thursday to give his account of the events leading to the death of young Nesbitt. He said he, along with one other boy and two girls, all of Duncan, were driving along Maple Bay Road towards Duncan when they saw two boys walking along the side of the road.

STOPPED CAR

Cline stated the boys made obscene motions with their thumbs so he and David Bossons, the driver of the car, stopped about 50 yards from the boys and started chasing them "to give them a scare."

He said Nesbitt hesitated for a moment then started running along the side of the road.

Cline told the court he ran after him and was about five feet behind him when Nesbitt apparently tripped. Cline said he fell on top of Nesbitt and had the wind knocked out of him. When he regained his wind he stood up but Nesbitt remained lying on the ground.

OTHERS ARRIVED

Seconds later Cline said, Sharon Hagen, one of the passengers in the car, and Bossons arrived. He said that David Bossons stood over the prostrate Nesbitt boy and told the others, "He probably just had the wind knocked out of him."

Cline said the three of them tried to help Nesbitt get up off the ground but he mumbled "Go away . . . take off." He told the court that they left Nesbitt, half lying, half crouched on the ground, went back to the car and drove off to go swimming at a nearby lake.

TO SCARE THEM

Under cross-examination by David Willans, prosecutor, Cline admitted drinking some beer earlier. He said, "Neither of us were eager to get at them. We just wanted to get them scared."

He said they chased the two boys because the guesture of the thumbs was "annoying."

Cline said "I never touched that boy."

Car Crash Caused By Over-Eager Dog

DUNCAN—Bill Keserich of Gibbins Road, Duncan, was driving his car along Gibbins Thursday when his German shepherd dog became tired of riding in the back seat.

Boarding Home

Hospital Offered Salvation Army

DUNCAN — In a letter to the Salvation Army headquarters at Toronto, Duncan hospital officials are offering the King's Daughters' Hospital for use as a non-profit boarding home for the elderly as soon as the newly-planned $3,500,000 Cowichan District Hospital is ready for operation.

A few weeks ago board officials here expressed their hope that construction on the new hospital will start towards the end of this year.

FAITHFUL SERVICE

Board members here at their last meeting commented on the faithful and fine service the Salvation Army has given elderly citizens in this district at the Cobble Hill operation for the past several years.

Meanwhile the municipality of North Cowichan and the Lake Cowichan Hospital Improvement District advised the board that they fully agree with the proposal of a non-profit chronic hospital (nursing home) adjacent to the new Cowichan District Hospital, and the boarding home.

Hospital administrator Ken Noton said the junior WA of the King's Daughters' Hospital has declared its willingness to sponsor a four-bed ward in the new hospital.

ATTEND MEETING

Hospital officials and board members will attend the island regional hospital council at Port Alberni, April 17 and 18.

Mrs. J. Anderson, supervisor of the King's Daughters' Hospital's operating room told the board a full instrument count following each operation here is carried out to avoid any accidents by leaving foreign objects in the patient.

Nanaimo Revision Case

Judges Haled Before Court

NANAIMO — Three Nanaimo court of revision judges have been ordered to appear before the B.C. Supreme Court in Vancouver next month.

Writs delivered to John Barby, William Cochrane and Russell Inkster charge that the court of revision was without jurisdiction in punishing R. E. "Doc" Nicoll for contempt of court and in dismissing his appeal on that charge.

The writ also says the three exceeded the jurisdiction of the court in ruling Doc Nicoll in contempt of court without giving him a hearing. It also states there was no evidence Mr. Nicoll was associated with a Mainland radio broadcast charging government assessors and courts of revisions with "gobble-de-gook and often downright lies."

The Nanaimo court of revision charged Mr. Nicoll with contempt following this broadcast. The matter was referred to the attorney-general's department when John Boadet, provincial land assessor, laid the charge and the local court of revision refused to hear Mr. Nicoll's appeal.

The three court of revision judges have been ordered to appear before the Court April 16.

Nanaimo

Chemical Plant Opened

NANAIMO — Hooker Chemicals Ltd. has announced its decision to construct its fourth chlor-alkali plant in British Columbia at Kitimat.

T. F. Willers, president of Hooker Chemicals, said the new chemical plant would be similar in size and operation to a recently completed chemical plant adjacent to Harmac pulp mill. Mr. Willers said the proposed operation would serve both the MacMillan Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. kraft mill at Powell River and the pulp industry in the Kitimat area.

Mr. Willers made the announcement at the official opening of Hookers' new chlorine and caustic soda plant at Nanaimo. (See picture, Page 12.)

The plant produces the chlorine and caustic soda used in the Harmac mill to bleach pulp. These chemicals are delivered by pipelines to the pulp mill which is adjacent to the Hooker Chemicals Ltd. property.

Officials of the company said the electro-chemicals process used is quiet, clean, safe and free of undesirable materials which might pollute the atmosphere or surrounding waters. This is the first chemical plant to be situated on Vancouver Island.

NORTH VANCOUVER

Hookers Chemicals has a large chemical plant in operation at North Vancouver which has been providing some of the bleaching agents used in the pulp industry in British Columbia. This was the first Hooker Chemicals plant in British Columbia and was completed in 1957.

Construction of the plant began in March, 1963, and cost an estimated $8,000,000. C. Y. Cain, vice-president of Hooker Chemicals, described the plant as "perhaps the biggest pipeline-chemical-pulp manufacturing complex on the North American continent."

C. A. Specht, president of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd., said "Hooker Chemicals Ltd. serves us well at reasonable prices. With co-operation like this it is possible the industry will take on dimensions that we don't even dream of."

Canada's New Military Look

By BEN WARD

OTTAWA (CP)—A picture of a unified, highly flexible Canadian military force poised for land, sea or air action anywhere on the globe was sketched Thursday in the government's white paper on defence.

* * *

Defence Minister Hellyer presented Parliament with a 13,000-word outline of defence policy for the next 10 years, centred on integration of the army, navy and RCAF into a single service. It would make Canada the first major nation to embark on military unification.

* * *

He told reporters the merger would trim so-called housekeeping costs by an estimated $1,000,000,000 over the 10-year period and eliminate 10,000 administrative jobs by 1968. Savings would be pumped into the purchase of new weapons, including nuclear ones.

* * *

Thus there would be little or no change in annual defence spending, now running around $1,500,000,000. The idea is to get more mileage out of the defence budget.

* * *

The white paper laid heavy emphasis on Canada's role in NORAD, NATO and United Nations peace-keeping operations. Increased mobility of the unified force would make it available for fast deployment for overseas police actions such as the Suez, Congo or Cyprus operations, or to a brush-fire war such as Korea.

* * *

Unification of the three services would start at the top with the appointment of a single defence chief. It would gradually work down the line, probably taking four years as indicated by Mr. Hellyer's target for the 10,000-job reduction.

* * *

The minister said he has selected Air Chief Marshal Frank Miller, 55, now chairman of the chiefs of staff committee, to boss the unified force. To balance the one-man military control, civilian powers over the forces are to be beefed up. Deputy Minister E. B. Armstrong will have increased responsibilities for managing the defence establishment.

* * *

Key note to the entire policy outline is laid down in the first section of the white paper. It lists these three objectives:

1. To preserve the peace by supporting collective defence measures to deter military aggression.

* * *

2. To support Canadian foreign policy including that arising out of our participation in international organizations.

* * *

3. To provide for the protection and surveillance of our territory, our air space and our coastal waters.

* * *

New weapons systems would be highly flexible to meet any of these needs. The main one referred to in the paper is "a high performance aircraft . . . for any task we might undertake from ground attack to air surveillance."

* * *

It would be adaptable for both NATO and North American defence and have sufficient range to move quickly overseas from Canadian bases if needed. It also would provide support for ground forces.

Officials said three aircraft are being studied—the American F-X and TFX designs and the British P-1154.

Also under study is the possibility of building two or three nuclear submarines for anti-sub warfare.

* * *

To obtain a high degree of mobility, air transport facilities will be stepped up sharply. Civilian air carriers will be considered for moving forces to areas with first-class airstrips. A fleet of versatile "air trucks" will be developed, able to land on makeshift strips.

* * *

The white paper states firmly that Canada must continue to keep its army brigade on NATO's front line in Europe "in its present role." This apparently eliminated any possibility of removing the brigade's Honest John nuclear rocket battery, a step recommended last December by the Commons defence committee.

* * *

Present policy of maintaining two army brigades in Canada as a NATO reserve will be continued. These will be retrained and re-equipped for higher mobility "to permit their effective deployment in circumstances ranging from service in the European theatre to United Nations peace-keeping operations."

* * *

In addition, NATO has asked Canada to keep an army battalion on immediate call for the supreme commander in Europe. This battalion will be designated from the Canadian-based brigades.

A fourth brigade will be kept as a special service force. It will be smaller than the others but even more mobile, with airportable and airdroppable equipment.

No thought is being given to abandonment of the nuclear ability of Canadian forces. As long as NATO required nuclear weapons and Canada remained part of the alliance, Canadian forces would share the nuclear policy.

* * *

The policy document said integration of the services is the only solution to the present situation in which 87 per cent of the defence budget is eaten up by the costs of maintaining headquarters, administrative and training establishments for each service.

Mr. Hellyer has been saying for months that his target is to put 25 per cent of the budget into weapons procurement. The white paper says integration will achieve this.

* * *

Mr. Hellyer told a press conference that integration might eventually lead to all servicemen wearing the same kind of uniform, but this was well in the future.

New Roles Of Future Spelled Out

OTTAWA (CP)—A major program to re-equip the army as a mobile striking or peace-keeping force and to purchase a new "versatile tactical aircraft" to operate in direct support of ground troops was unveiled today by Defence Minister Hellyer.

A 10-year plan outlined in a defence white paper tabled in the Commons said the army's role will need a "substantial" increase in air transport and perhaps the use of civilian air carriers to move troops.

NAVY ANTI-SUB

The program hinted at a declining role for Canada in North American air defence as the threat of manned bombers diminishes. Three squadrons of home-defence CF-101 jets would be continued as long as the planes last, supplemented later, if required, by units of the planned new combat squadrons.

BOMARCS GOING

The two Bomarc anti-aircraft missile squadrons would be operated "as long as they form an integral and essential part of the NORAD system." But it was hoped that radar bases in Canada could be gradually phased out as the bomber threat lessened.

CHANGE FORECAST

Dealing with Canada's NATO contribution in Europe—a 6,100-man army brigade group and an eight-squadron air division—the white paper announced that the brigade group will not be withdrawn.

A future change in the NATO air division was forecast as the existing CF-104 nuclear bomber-attack squadrons dwindled over the next 10 years because of non-replacement of aircraft.

All eight squadrons were being equipped for an alternative non-nuclear attack role.

With the army brigade group in NATO left unchanged, the main policy changes involving the army affect Canada-based troops.

Two army brigades in Canada—some 6,000 men earmarked as NATO reserves—"will be re-equipped and retrained as a mobile force as well as for rotational service with the NATO brigade."

FOURTH BRIGADE

"In order to achieve maximum flexibility, these two brigades will be equipped to permit their effective deployment in circumstances ranging from service in the European theatre to United Nations peace-keeping operations."

A fourth brigade in Canada would be gradually converted to a special service force, smaller than the conventional brigades but provided with equipment that can be carried and dropped from the air.

Training of the planned mobile army brigades in Canada would allow them to be used for United Nations peace-keeping duties "in extreme conditions from Arctic to jungle." They would be trained for varied tasks "from firefighting to communications."

SEA-LIFTS

The navy, besides continuing its anti-submarine role, would be given "a modest additional sea-lift" so it could move heavy equipment and supplies for UN operations.

House Committee To Study Paper

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister Hellyer said Thursday he hopes the Commons committee on defence will be re-established soon after the Easter recess to examine the defence white paper.

He was replying to Harold Winch (NDP, Vancouver East), member of the committee last session.

Shipyards Ready To Build A-Subs

Victoria shipyard officials yesterday were hopeful West Coast yards would participate in any planned construction of nuclear submarines in Canada.

John Wallace of Yarrows and VMD president Harold Husband were commenting on proposals presented in the House of Commons yesterday by Defence Minister Hellyer.

The proposals suggested the possibility of building "two or three" of the vessels for anti-submarine duties on both coasts.

CAN BE DONE

Mr. Wallace said the Canadian shipbuilding industry was asked three years ago whether it was capable of producing nuclear-powered craft. He said the consensus at that time was such ships could be built in Canada, provided technical assistance was provided from outside Canada.

"It is hoped some of this work would be done on the West Coast," Mr. Wallace said. He said with B.C.'s weather conditions and deep-water ports, such work could be handled here.

Mr. Husband said West Coast yards were prepared to build either conventional or nuclear-powered subs.

"I assume from this announcement," Mr. Husband said, "the Royal Canadian Navy will continue its anti-submarine role. If nuclear-powered submarines are to be built, we at least hope they will be built in Canada."

Rocky Hails New Plans

EDMONTON (CP)—The defence department white paper presented to the Commons Thursday holds a great deal of promise for men in the armed forces, Maj.-Gen. J. M. Rockingham said.

Gen. Rockingham said he had not studied the paper in detail but "it looks to me like the most satisfactory paper I've seen. It shows a great deal of promise for an interesting life in the forces, particularly for younger officers. It's first class, although it will take a while to develop."

U.S., Canada Brass End Defence Talks

Eight senior commanders of Western Canada and the U.S. concluded discussions yesterday on the defence of North America at a meeting of the ALCANUS Organization as the guests of Rear-Admiral W. M. Landymore, flag officer Pacific Coast.

Meetings of the ALCANUS (for Alaska-Canada-U.S.) Organization have been held for almost 15 years, Rear-Admiral Landymore said. "In the Pacific it is the counterpart of NATO in the Atlantic but it is restricted to Canadian and U.S. participation."

Planning staffs of the commanders were present at the discussions.

IN ATTENDANCE

Rear-Admiral G. D. Symon, USCG, 17th Coast Guard District; Maj.-Gen. J. W. Rockingham, Canadian Army Western Command; Air Commodore R. J. Lane, RCAF, Air Transport; Vice-Admiral J. T. Hayward, USN, commander-in-chief, Pacific Fleet; Lt.-Gen. R. J. Reeves, USAF, Alaska Command; Rear-Admiral E. E. Yeomans, USN, Western Sea Command; Lt.-Gen. F. J. Brown, USA, 6th U.S. Army and Maj.-Gen. W. E. Arnold, USA, Tactical Air Command.

'Integration Going On Ten Years'

CALGARY (CP) — Integration of Canada's armed forces has been in progress for 10 years and any additional saving would result from combining administrative functions, former defence minister Douglas Harkness said Thursday.

Plans had been in progress for several years for a unified command and integrated supply and administration services.

Mr. Harkness said it would be a mistake, however, to abandon the distinctive uniforms of the three services.

Nuclear submarines would "almost certainly" be acquired by Canada when the price decreased, he said.

Hellyer Denies Oath Violation

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Production Minister Drury was accused in the Commons Thursday of violating his oath of cabinet secrecy and infringing on the rights of Parliament by making a speech Wednesday night on the government's defence white paper.

The charge was made by former Conservative defence minister Gordon Churchill, who said Mr. Drury spoke to a closed meeting of the United Services Institute in Montreal on some aspects of the white paper.

Mr. Drury categorically denied that he had made any disclosure of new policy decisions contained in the white paper. He said he discussed the historical background leading up to the present situation.

Ottawa's Assessment

World Threat Reviewed

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada must maintain a wide variety of flexible defence forces to contribute to the Western world's war deterrent because of continuing threats through the next decade, says the defence White Paper tabled in the Commons today.

Assessing the international outlook, it said calculated all-out thermonuclear war is so irrational as to be improbable. However, as long as major East-West political problems remain, the West—with the United States taking the lead—must maintain its capacity to deter such a war.

"It is probable that Communist China will grow in power, and unless its national objectives change, it may also grow in menace.

"The production of some nuclear weapons by Communist China during the next decade cannot be discounted, but it is not likely to acquire an effective nuclear arsenal with the means of delivery which could compare with that of the U.S.A. or the U.S.S.R. during this period."

The paper also said that unless there is an international self - denying ordinance, other countries may be tempted to develop independent nuclear capabilities.

Failure Dangerous

"Failure to achieve a solution to this problem, while it is still of manageable proportions, could fundamentally and dangerously alter the world security situation and render invalid many current defence assumptions."

The most likely prospect for the future, barring all-out nuclear war and failing achievement of complete disarmament, was continuation of political tensions marked by limited wars, insurrections, guerrilla activities and political upheavals.

Canada's contribution to the deterrence of war is limited by human and material resources available, but Canada can and must make a "far from negligible" contribution.

"In the belief that adequate force through a wide spectrum is essential to the deterrence of war, it is the policy of the government in determining Canada's force structure for the balance of the decade to build in maximum flexibility. . . ."

There had never been any serious question of Canada becoming a member of the nuclear club in manufacturing its own atomic weapons and having them under its own control.

But Canada, as a responsible member of the nuclear-armed North Atlantic Treaty Organization, has to share a responsibility which NATO "dare not" shirk to have nuclear weapons in its defence structure.

Can't Avoid Share

"One cannot be a member of a military alliance and at the same time avoid some share of responsibility for its strategic policies.

"Having accepted the responsibility for membership in a nuclear - armed alliance, the question of nuclear weapons for the Canadian armed forces is a subordinate issue. It depends on how we can most effectively contribute to collective strength."

In the defence of Canada, the white paper said the minimum requirements are to maintain surveillance of Canadian territory, airspace and territorial waters; to deal with any military incidents in Canada, off Canadian coasts, and in the air over Canada within the country's limited resources.

The major threat to North America was still from the air and while there might be some downward trend in continental air defence forces it was likely that Canada would always be directly involved in some form of air defence operations.

"Such defence, to be fully effective, involves nuclear weapons. It should be noted that these weapons could be used only in the event of a deep enemy penetration of Canadian air space."

At sea, Canada's main role will continue in anti-submarine work.

"In order to get the maximum effectiveness for our investment in the anti-submarine force, we are conducting a major study to determine the best combination of weapons systems for this task. We have the active co-operation of our allies in this research."

In international peacekeeping operations, the white paper said establishment of a United Nations standing force is impracticable at this time because of varying needs and reluctance of the great powers.
